Today

The Underworld May Help.
William H. Mullins.
Briand Was for France.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

NO DEFINITE news of the Lindbergh child when this was written, at half past five, yesterday. On Sunday while police were guarding the Lindbergh house, to prevent intrusion, and prayers were offered in thousands of churches, asking the Divine help, a letter was sent to newspapers inviting the assistance of Irving Bitz and Salvatore Spitale, two members of New York's "underworld" as go-betweens, to help in the recovery of the child.

THE ABSOLUTE "higher-ups" in the racketeering world declined to enter the Lindbergh case, saying, "newspaper front pages are poison to us," but they are said to have approved the use of Bitz and Spitale.

The racketeer rulers are glad to have Bitz and Spitale make themselves as useful as possible, because they "wish to check the growing hostility to racketeering."

ONE WELL ACQUAINTED with gangster methods said yesterday:

"Now that Spitale is on the side of law and order, other gangsters that MIGHT give information will fear to do so. They will say to Spitale, 'You have left racketeering and turned cop.' And if the kidnapers of the child are amateurs, not professional criminals, as 'experts' allege, they also would fear to deal with racketeers."

However, nothing proves that the crime, committed with carefully concealed fingerprints and footprints, is that of an amateur criminal. If the abductors are professionals, the selection of two underworld characters as go-betweens may be the wisest possible step.

YESTERDAY Salvatore Spitale and Irving Bitz had disappeared from their usual haunts on errands said to be of importance.

Strange is the curiosity of modern civilization. If those two men should return with the baby, safe and well, they probably could, for a while, make in vaudeville more money than the underworld could give them.

THE REV. Father Charles E. Coughlin, of the Little Flower, Detroit, speaking over the radio, deplores the fact that Col. Lindbergh found it necessary to deal with underworld characters. He advises the kidnapers to leave the child at any Catholic orphanage, or:

"Go to some priest; he will hold your confidence."

WILLIAM H. MULLINS, who died on Sunday, at Salem, O., was a typical American, capable, energetic, creating his own industry and building it up into his old age. Salem, and the state of Ohio, will regret his loss, because of his public benefactions, and because he supplied employment to many men, for many years, and improved American production methods in several lines.

Young Americans can learn from his career that success is always possible for those that combine intelligence with willingness to work.

When a boy, he bought what was left of a locomotive that had been in a collision, ran the wreck into a round house, hired mechanics to help repair it, sold it for $8,000 profit and started a little factory at Salem.

In that factory, changing products as times changed, he manufactured cornices for buildings, statues, including those of Kruger in South Africa and of Liberty on New York's City Hall, boats of metal, and automobile bodies. He gave those that worked with him a share in his success and profits.

His life honored his father and his mother, and was a blessing to his community. His widow and two daughters, surviving him, may be proud of his name.

WITH GANDHI in jail, and Hindu disturbers that worry Britain quiescent, Mohammedans in India begin making serious trouble. It started strangely.

A Hindu bookseller in Calcutta sold a book containing pictures of Mohammed. The Koran, largely inspired by the Hebrew Old Testament, takes seriously the order:

"Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in Heaven above or that is in the earth beneath."

A young Mohammedan, shocked by the sin committed in showing Mohammed's picture, stabbed the Hindu bookseller to death. British law condemned the Mohammedan to death. That is why the Mohammedans are threatening England, and demanding commutation of the murderous Mohammedan's sentence.

ARISTIDE BRIAND, who dreamed of creating a "United States of Europe" is dead at 69. He was a French statesman and he WORKED FOR FRANCE. He did not worry about the United States, would not have sent a French soldier or a French franc to this country if it had been on fire, from Alaska to Florida. He was French, worked for FRANCE, and had no thought for anything else.

The power of France, her domination in Europe, the fact that she is the greatest "gold country" in the world is due to the fact that she produces such men as Briand.

WAR NEWS as usual. Japan undertook a certain job and proposes to carry it through. The League of Nations says "Please don't," just as it said, "Please don't" to Mussolini when he was engaged in compelling a substantial payment

JAM DELAYS TRIAL OF WIDOW

Witnesses in Culbertson Case Buffeted as Crowd Blocks Doors to Court

Nearly 200 men and women trying to jam their way into the tiny courtroom where Mrs. Laverna Culbertson, 37, of Mt. Lebanon, is on trial for the killing of her husband, Albert L. Culbertson, delayed resumption of the trial for almost half an hour after the noon recess today.

A score of tipstaffs, deputy sheriffs and county detectives formed a barrier across the entrance to the room, which holds, at the most, 60 spectators.

Witnesses caught on the outside were brought through only after the greatest difficulty, reaching their seats with their clothes disheveled and torn from the battle through the surging crowd.

COURT GUARDED

A parade of bottles, containers of gin, whisky and ginger ale, some empty, some full, marked the opening of the trial today.

These were the bottles, the prosecution said, which were found in the Culbertson's luxurious home in Jefferson drive when the crash of a shotgun wrote the finale to a gay week-end party that started the day before, when the Culbertsons took their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Walker, of Mt. Vernon, O., to the Pitt-Army football game at the Stadium.

One, the prosecution charged, was a flask of gin, full; another a pint of whisky, with only a drink or two gone; a third, a quart whisky bottle which, at the time of the killing, had been only recently emptied.

The flask was passed to Judge

BIG KLINE TRIAL PLOT SEEN

BUTLER, March 8.—A master mind was sought today in the alleged plot to "fix" the Mayor Charles H. Kline jury.

With three men already under arrest and police of two counties searching for another man and a woman, belief was expressed by investigators that a gigantic plot, originating in Pittsburgh, had been uncovered.

Two alleged participants in the so-called plot are in County Jail here. They are Howard Gross, Pittsburgh city employe, and Roy Eakin, oil well pumper, residing near Bakerstown, Allegheny County. Gross, arrested Saturday, is being held on a charge of embracery and Eakin, brought in on a bench warrant issued by Judge Thomas W. Watson yesterday, likely will be held on the same charge. William H. Cook, of Hilliard, Butler County, is at liberty under $1,500 bond on an embracery charge. The man and woman, sought on the same charge, are said to be former Butler County residents, but have

POLICE HELPING AWAY A COMRADE SHOT BY THE RIOTERS

FOSTER SOUGHT IN FORD RIOT

DETROIT, March 8.—(INS.)—An augmented force of state police was stationed near the Ford Motor Company plant in Dearborn today as a precaution against possible recurrence of the bloody riot in which four men were killed and more than 40 injured.

Held under arms in the Detroit armory until nearly midnight last night, a battalion of the National Guard was subject to immediate call today should any emergency arise.

In the county jail police held 11 alleged participants in the demonstration which developed into a furious battle of bullets, clubs, bricks and rocks at the gates of the Ford plant late yesterday.

William Z. Foster, Communist leader, was one of those sought by police today. He and several other Communists who addressed Sunday crowds here have disappeared. They made plans for the march to the Ford plant at the Sunday meetings.

Charges of criminal syndicalism

WIDOW GRIEVES, ENDS LIFE

Grief over the death of her husband, fatally burned in their King Edward apartments last November, is believede by deputy coroners to have prompted Mrs. Harriett Tiemann, 45, to shoot herself this morning.

She was found dead with a gunshot wound in her breast and the death was reported as suicide at the Coroner's office.

Last November 28, Hugh P. Tiemann, 52, metallurgist for the Carnegie Steel Company, was burned when the bed clothing ignited, presumably from a lighted cigaret. Mrs. Tiemann was burned tearing the blazing coverings from her husband. He died January 4 in Homeopathic Hospital.

A deputy coroner reported that Mrs. Tiemann had wrapped many of her valued possessions and placed a card bearing the name of a relative or friends on each. No note was found, it was said.

Firemen of Bridgeville, Carnegie, Glendale, Heidelberg and Kirwan Heights quelled the fire after a two-hour battle.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 8.—(INS.)—Virtually isolated from its nearby sources of milk supply by the worst storm that has struck Western New York in years, Rochester today was fighting a serious milk shortage.

Cold to Stay as Mercury Hits 8, Winter's Lowest

March's topsy-turvy winter sent the mercury to an official low mark of 8 degrees this morning, shattering all cold records for the 1931-32 season, as well as for this date, with only slight relief predicted in the next 24 hours.

The forecast calls for cloudy and continued cold tonight and Wednesday, with probable snow flurries. A minimum temperature of 12 is predicted tonight.

The previous low for March 8 was 12, in 1883, although there has been colder weather later in the month, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman asserted.

A low pressure area characterized by rain in Texas and Louisiana was headed toward this district, but by the time it reaches here the rain will have turned to snow, Brotzman said. Another severe cold area was reported from the extreme Northwest today, indicating continuance of winter here for several days.

South County Park is the only place in the vicinity of Pittsburgh available for outdoor ice skating today, according to Paul B. Riis, director of the county park, and James Moore, superintendent of city parks. Moore said that the high wind prevented city ponds from freezing sufficiently to hold skaters.

FOUR SUSPECTS JAILED FOR QUIZ; WOMAN LINKS CONTRACTOR

BULLETIN

TRENTON, N. J., March 8.—(AP.)—A letter made public by police authorities last Thursday purporting to demand $50,000 ransom for the return of the Lindbergh baby was described today as almost identical in composition with a threatening letter mailed three years ago to Constance Morrow.

By FRANCIS A. JAMIESON

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 8.—(AP.)—Police revealed today that they were still investigating the possibility that some member of Charles A. Lindbergh's household was involved in the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby a week ago today.

That such investigation was still going on was acknowledged by Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf, superintendent of state police, who is in general charge of the police search for the kidnapers.

FORTUNE-TELLING CLUE

This developmentt came as the searchlight of the investigation swung its full glare into New England.

Two men were arrested in a Boston railroad station while putting through a long distance call to the Lindbergh home. One of the men, Earle Edwards, 40, of Derry, N. H., had told a fellow train passenger that his father-in-law, who he said was an amateur fortune teller, had divulged important clues in the kidnaping case, and when he and his newly-made friend, Samuel Black, 51, of Lawrence, were making the call, they were seized and taken to police headquarters for questioning.

In New Haven, Conn., Tony Messlo, a contractor, was held in $25,000 bond for state police investigating what they said was an entirely new angle of the case. A short time later another man was taken to the state's attorney's office in connection with the case. Attaches would not give out the man's name.

Messlo was held, officials said, after a woman at Colchester, Conn., had said she had heard him and two other men talking 10 months ago about the Lindbergh baby. One of the men, the woman was quoted as reporting, was to try to get work at the Lindbergh estate at Hopewell, N. J., while it was under construction.

In accordance with procedure established by state police a list of questions was submitted by the press this morning to Col. Schwartzkopf at the Lindbergh home. He made his replies by telephone after consultation with the Lindberghs or their representatives.

TOYS COVERED BY DUST

One of the questions read:

"The refusal of state police to answer any questions pertaining to a possibility that a servant or employe in the Lindbergh home was involved in the kidnaping has created a general impression that such a theory is the most plausible now held by

How Police Answer Kidnaping Queries

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS

International News Service.

TRENTON, N. J., March 8.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is receiving all communications direct, including letters, telegrams and teleuhone calls, Maj. Charles Schoeffel, of the New Jersey state police, declared in this afternoon's official press conference on the progress of the Lindbergh baby kidnaping case. He was asked:

"Gov. Moore, of New Jersey, said that the police do not supervise the Lindbergh mail so that all communications by letters, addressed personally to the Colonel reach him and no one else—does this rule apply to telegraphic and telephone communications?"

Schofield replied:

"Yes."

Other questions and answers follow:

Q—Are there any new developments in the case? What are they?

A—Not available. Investigators still out.

Q—What are the physical characteristics of the Lindbergh nursery with respect to the furniture there, the number of windows, the location of the crib with reference to its distance from the nearest wall, window and door?

A—This cannot be answered at this time.

QUESTIONED ON DOG

Q—Please say exactly where the Lindbergh dog was at the time of the kidnaping? Who had the dog under observation at that time? How many intervening doors were between the dog and the nursery? Were they open or closed? Is the dog in the habit of barking at the approach of strangers on the estate?

A—The ground floor in the kitchen-pantry: (1) Servants; (2) Four doors; (3) Closed; (4) Yes, if he had seen them.

PLANES TO SEEK 3 SHIPS LONG OVERDUE

18 Men Feared Lost With Vessels in Atlantic; Liner Unable to Aid Collier

LUDINGTON, Mich., March 8.—(AP.)—The Pere Marquette passenger steamer Virginia was in distress today in Lake Michigan outside the Ludington Harbor in a severe blizzard.

A Coast Guard lifeboat was launched to investigate the trouble.

The ship was only 400 feet off the south arm of the breakwater, but because of the driving storm it was impossible for shore watchers to determine the nature of the trouble. Coast guards suggested the ship might be aground or have lost its rudder.

The ship was en route from Manitowoc, Wis.

The ship, which carries no radio, was battered about by high waves as the rescue vessels tried to maneuver to a point from which aid could be given.

PLANES TO SEARCH

CAPE MAY, N. J., March 8 (AP.)—The fate of two fishing schooners and a coal barge, with 18 men aboard, which have been missing since the height of the gale which swept the Atlantic seaboard Sunday night, remained a mystery today.

The schooners Winifred M. and the Native, both owned by a fisheries company of North Wildwood, N. J., have been unreported since they were sighted battling a northwest gale Sunday night by the captain of another fishing boat.

Coast Guardsmen said airplanes would be sent out today to search for the schooners. The Winifred M. had seven men aboard and the Native had a crew of five.

A third boat of the same fleet was located 26 miles at sea last night by a Coast Guard cutter and was towed to Wildwood.

Fear was expressed also for safety of the five members of the crew of the coal barge Deepwater No. 1, of Philadelphia, which tore loose from the tug Mars off the coast of Maryland. The barge was being towed from Norfolk, Va., with a cargo of coal for Deepwater, N. J.

COLLIER IN DISTRESS

BOSTON, March 8.—(AP.)—Thirty-four men, who dared not stop the engines of their rudderless ship, looked for moderating seas off Nantucket lightship today to enable them to accept the aid of nearby vessels.

They were the crew of the collier H. F. Bardeleben in ballast out of Boston for Norfolk.

Seas swept the decks of the high-riding ship as she bucked a northwest gale at a seven-knot speed. Her men were unable to stay at their posts and her skipper, Capt. B. T. Knight, sought immediate assistance.

The White Star liner Adriatic stood by, and three smaller Coast Guard boats hovered in the vicinity. Attempts to get a line aboard the collier failed, and preparations were underway to pick the Bardeleben's crew from the water should they be carried under.

Mission Preacher Arrested in Theft

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—(AP.)—Fred Biggart, who admits he was a thief by day and a preacher in the downtown missions at night, was being held without bail today for the Montgomery County grand jury.

Arraigned in Ardmore last night, he was charged with 30 burglaries on the Main Line in the past two years. Police said he confessed that he pulled his jobs in the daytime and nearly every night told of his former life in prison and urged mission audiences to follow the straight and narrow path.

Snowbound Group Sheltered on Farms

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 8.—(AP.)—Passengers on a Blue Ridge Transportation Company bus, snowbound in the National highway, near the Pennsylvania state line, yesterday sought shelter in nearby homes until picked up by other vehicles.

Later a state snow plow attempting to clear the road crashed into the abandoned bus. The National highway was reported blocked by snow from Grantsville, Md., east.

Firemen Risk Lives For Birds, Monkeys

CHICAGO, March 8.—(AP.)—Firemen and representatives of the Illinois Humane Society fought bitter cold and the peril of fire last night to rescue more than 200 love birds, parrots and canaries and 200 monkeys from a blazing bird and animal store in the loop.

Most of those saved probably will die of exposure to the near-zero temperature. Nine hundred other birds and monkeys perished, most of them from suffocation.

Storm Takes Heavy Toll on Lake Erie

ERIE, Pa., March 8.—(AP.)—The late winter storm had taken a heavy toll on land and water near here today. Fishing ships were unable to put out to care for their crins and nets which had been placed out when the season opened a month earlier than usual.

More than 100 feet of the peninsula road near Flashlight was washed out by the heavy sea last night.

CROWDS DELAY WIDOW TRIAL

Samuel H. Gardner by Assistant District Attorney Earl T. Adair, the prosecutor. Judge Gardner sniffed, smiled slightly and passed the container to Oliver K. Eaton, one of the defense counsel, who examined it carefully.

J. C. Carrol, a deputy coroner, was on the stand when the bottles were presented. He identified them as those he found in the Culbertson home Sunday, November 15, the day of the tragedy.

LIFE TERM DEMANDED

Prosecutor Adair made his opening address this morning, selection of the jury having been completed late yesterday.

He said the commonwealth was not seeking the death penalty that it demanded a first-degree verdict of murder with a recommendation for life imprisonment. He continued:

"We will prove to you that the shooting was no accident, as it is referred to by the defense, but a deliberate and premeditated murder.

"The night before the murder, the two women were drinking.

"The next morning, when police arrived at the home, there were deep scratches on the dead man's face; there were bruises on Mrs. Walker's arm, and there were bruises on Mrs. Culbertson's chin.

"The defense will try to prove to you that the husband and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Culbertson, had a slight argument over some orange juice.

"We will prove that this is a lie."

CONFLICTING TALES

Adair continued, telling the jurors that Mrs. Culbertson had told two contradictory stories of events leading up to the shooting, and that he would prove both were false.

He also pointed out to them that she "knew about shotguns," and contended therefore, the shooting was not accidental.

Dr. T. R. Helmhold, a Coroner's physician, corroborated Adair's charges of the scratches on Culbertson's body.

He said his autopsy showed the fatal gunshot wound to be under the right arm and that the dead man's forehead, cheeks, face, left shoulder and right arm were scratched severely.

Dr. R. W. Lang, the Culbertsons family physician, John Alcorn, chief deputy coroner, Raymond Sellers, another coroner's deputy, and Harry Ross, a county Bertillon photographer, testified as to condition at the home when they arrived there.

Aldisert told of finding two shotguns, one outside the home and one in the basement. He also revealed that Deputy Carroll had found a letter in the living room and turned it over to him. Its contents were not disclosed.

SONS IN COURT

Mrs. Culbertson's two young sons, Albert L., Jr., 11, and Charles, 7, were in the courtroom.

The oldest of her sons is scheduled to be called as a commonwealth witness today or tomorrow. From him Prosecutor Adair hopes to wring facts which will aid in conviction of the mother.

Five women and seven men compromise the jury, which was carefully chosen yesterday, with defense counsel apparently anxious to have it composed entirely of married persons.

Colleague of Lindy's Father Posts Reward

NEW YORK, March 8.—(AP.)—William Lafferty, attorney, who was a colleague in the House of Representatives of the late Representative Charles A. Lindbergh, the kidnaped baby's grandfather, has offered $50,000 for the child's return.

Lafferty, who says he "has known Lindy since he was 8," was once a member of Congress from Portland, Ore., and now resides here. If the kidnapers will return the baby unharmed, he offers them legal defense "to the last ditch" in case they ever are arrested.

2 Firemen Missing, 6 Injured in Blaze

PORTSMOUTH, O., March 8.—(INS.)—Two firemen were reported missing and six others were seriously injured today when a wall collapsed as they were battling a fire in the downtown business district.

Plane Drops Food to 13 Marooned in Buses

BATAVIA, N. Y., March 8.—(AP.)—An airplane from Leroy today took food to 13 passengers marooned since 6 o'clock last night in two buses near Bergen, 16 miles east of here.

Russell Holderman, director of the airport, flew low over the snowbound buses and dropped packages containing sandwiches, two smoked hams, cigarets, matches and candy.

The buses were stalled in deep snowdrifts in a narrow stretch of highway. State troopers said the passengers did not suffer from exposure last night. Two troopers and the drivers of the buses carried gasoline from a nearby filling station and kept the motors running throughout the night to supply heat.

NEW YORK, March 8.—(AP.)—The United Airlines' plane from Newark to Chicago was loaded with a 50-pound bag of food today to be dropped on Ring Mountain in the Alleghenies, where Morris Williams, keeper of a beacon, is marooned by the storm without supplies.

GENEVA, N. Y., March 8.—(AP.)—More than a score of passengers, including women and children, bound from Sayre, Pa., to points north, were compelled to spend the night aboard a Lehigh Valley Railroad train when it stalled in a huge snowdrift a few miles south of this city. Farmers living nearby took them food today. Later a relief train took the passengers off the stalled coaches.

76 MILLION TAX APPEAL ARGUED FOR BENEDUM

John W. Davis Contests Huge Loan Made by U. S. Following Oil Transfer

WASHINGTON, March 8.—(AP.)—Arguments on the appeal of F. B. Parriott, of Tulsa, Okla., and M. L. Benedum, of Pittsburgh, for a redetermination of a $76,000,000 deficiency in income tax assessed against them by the Internal Revenue Bureau were opened today before the United States Board of Tax Appeals.

The case involves the fair market value of the stock of the dissolved Trans-Continental Oil Company, of which Parriott and Benedum were the principal owners.

ASSETS SOLD

Benedum and Parriott, pioneer oil men in the Southwest, dissolved the Tex-Penn Oil Company and sold its assets to the Trans-Continental Oil Company, buying out three minor partners and taking 1,007,384 shares of the company's stock in payment for their interest in the other company.

In 1924 the Internal Revenue Bureau levied a deficiency in income tax of $1,789,000 against the company, and this gradually was increased each year until, in 1931, with interest it amounted to $76,000,000.

DAVIS ARGUES

John W. Davis, of New York, appearing for the oil men, argued that the transaction was non-taxable except as to $9,000,000 in cash on which the taxes had been paid. He contended that the law provided for a reorganization or merger of corporations and held where new stock was received for stock of the old company no gain or loss occurred.

The Internal Revenue Bureau assessed the deficiency on the supposed profit made in the exchange of the stock.

No decision is expected for several months.

HIBBEN AWAITS GANG CHIEFS

PRINCETON, N. J., March 8.—(INS.)—Poised and suave in the company of the world's illustrious men and women to which his distinction commonly brings him, Dr. John Grier Hibben, 70, president of Princeton University, today nervously faced the prospect of his oddest encounter.

He admitted he expected the two underworld chieftains authorized by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to act as go-betweens in the hunt for his kidnaped baby to call upon him, and the noted educator also admitted that for once he was at a loss how to act when he met them. He declared:

"I don't understand why attention should center on me. I am not an official agent of the Lindbergh family. I really won't know how to act."

Dr. Hibben apparently had received reports, "Salvy" Spitale and Irving Bitz, named by Lindbergh would come here to consult him.

He wondered what he would do should the men be present and some one called up to ask him if they were there, since it might be necessary to keep the meeting secret.

Donora Man Dies After Fall in Drift

DONORA, Pa., March 8.—Apparently frozen to death after being severely injured, the body of William Sally, 62, was found today by his son William, 14, in a gully. He left his home in East Donora last night and is believed to have been injured in a fall.

MOTHER KEEPS HOUSE FOR ANNE

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 8.—(AP.)—Mrs. Dwight Morrow, widow of the Ambassador to Mexico, who, in her own home, has presided with charm and dignity over many a dinneer honoring prominent persons from all parts of the world, is waiting tables at the Lindbergh home.

A wealthy woman with many servants of her own, Mrs. Morrow has donned a big apron to do the housekeeping in her daughter's house.

She makes the beds, the 10 extra cots where the troopers sleep, and the beds of each member of the family. She helps her daughter plan the meals and orders their preparation by her own cooks.

Visitors said that Mrs. Lindbergh's cold had improved and that she was in good physical health. They admitted, however, that her seeming composure masked a growing feeling of terror.

IRATE FATHER FOILS ELOPERS

Dorothy Murphy and Al Samuels, headliners on the current Loew's Penn Theater vaudeville program, today pinned their future on the truth or untruth of the ancient adage "true love will find a way" after their plans for an elopement yesterday encountered the opposition of the girl's father.

The fires of love still glowed in the hearts of Dorothy and Al as they awaited the arrival today of Mrs. Bob Murphy from her home in New York to give or withhold parental blessing.

We're going through with it. Nothing can stop us. Father thinks I'm still a baby and without a mind of my own."

News of the proposed elopement leaked out after the couple paid a visit to the Marriage License Bureau. Reporters trailed the couple to the Penn Theater and in the wings began questioning the girl. It was the "tip off" to the father something was afoot.

The girl, the father, her brother Dick, and Samuels retired to a nearby dressing room, where the news was apparently broken to them. Loud voices and sounds of combat reached the corridors, indicating the character of the objections. It terminated in the appearance of Mike Cullen, theater manager.

On the floor of the dressing room lay the marriage license, torn to bits, mute evidence of the frustration of the elopement.

Authorities announced that three of the jailed men—Shelly Rogers, Paul James and John Fauth—faced possible murder charges, should investigation indicate they were the instigators of the riot.

FORD SEES BATTLE

High on a tower, the battle was witnessed by Edsel Ford, son of the multi-millionaire manufacturer, Charles Sorensen, general manager of the Ford company, and Fred W. Green, former Michigan Governor.

Suffering from severe scalp injuries, Harry H. Bennett, head of the Ford private police, was in the Henry Ford Hospital.

The four who lost their lives in the riot were identified as Joe York, Solomon Levey, Coleman Lenz and Joe Debruske. The first three were said to have been former employes in the Ford plant. Debruske, a newsboy, was believed to have been an innocent onlooker when a bullet struck him.

POLICE, MOB ACCUSED

Attempting to fix responsibility for the battle, police today were considering conflicting reports. Although the Ford company issued no statement regarding the disturbance, officials of the company police service declared Communists inspired the demonstration and the marchers opened the attack. Representatives of the marchers, however, accused the company police of having fired into the crowd and contended the demonstration was to have been orderly.

PEACE PARLEYS RENEWED AT SHANGHAI

Neutral Mediators Seeking Armistice But Reports of Impending Battle Grow

SHANGHAI, March 8.—(AP.)—Neutral mediators who had not met for several days gathered this afternoon to renew their efforts to put an end to the fighting in this area.

Even as they met there were reports that a new offensive on a major scale was developing along a new battle line west and northwest of the city, and some believed Chiang Kai-Shek would have a hand in the new campaign.

Informal negotiations have not been interrupted while the mediating board was adjourned, but it was said that the Chinese representatives had not modified their attitude of opposition to any armistice achieved by means of "humiliating" concession.

A representative of the Chinese government summed it up in a sentence:

"It takes two to stop a fight as well as to start it."

The Chinese are still looking to the League of Nations Assembly for a solution, contending that the Japanese have overstepped the 12½-mile deadline to which Gen. Uyeda demanded that the Chinese forces withdraw.

Meanwhile the big guns of the Woosung forts, targets of the shells from the Japanese warships for weeks, will bark no more against Japan. They were dismantled by the Japanese today to be shipped to Japan. All of them were more or less damaged and they will be exhibited in Japan as trophies of the campaign at Shanghai.

'BOY EMPEROR' IN MANCHURIA

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, March 8.—(AP.)—Henry Pu-Yi, former "boy emperor" of China, who stepped down from the ancient "dragon throne" and went into exile as a bewildered child 20 years ago, arrived here today for his inauguration tomorrow as head of the new Manchurian Federated State.

The former exile came as a jauntily dressed, self-assured young man ready to rule again the land from which three centuries ago his forefathers, the ancient Manchus, descended on China to establish a dynasty of which he himself was the last sovereign.

Pu-Yi received the greetings of Gen. Mah Chan-Shan, Governor of Heilungkiang province; Hsi Hsia and other Manchurian notables. He was then driven rapidly through the Japanese railway town into the walled city, where he took up his residence in the city hall which has been converted into a temporary presidential palace.

"I can't help it if I lose my life at any moment."

WINIFRED BLACK ASKS GANGSTER TRUCE ON CHILDREN

NOTED WRITER PLEADS FOR MOTHERS

Open Letter to 'Salvy' Tells Of Terror Which Grips All Homes Since Kidnaping

By WINIFRED BLACK
Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—Mr. Salvatore Spitale, luxurious apartment, the Eighties, New York City, N. Y. (care of Mr. Jack Lait).

Dear Friend and Brother:

To begin with, let me say that every mother in America is praying for you and your rather peculiar partner today.

If you two men, known to the police as racketeers and gangsters, bring back Lindy's poor little, frightened, lonesome, homesick baby safe and sound, I guess a good many of us illogical, bewildered mothers will go on praying for you quite a while—however much that may mean.

Up in the mountain cabins, out on lonely farms, in stale rooms in the crowded tenements, in gorgeous apartments, in beautiful country homes—all over the United States those prayers have risen, and are still rising.

ASKS FAVOR TO MOTHERS

But that's only a part of what I want to say to you in the open letter, Mr. Spitale.

I am writing in the name of the mothers of this country to ask you a great and signal favor.

Will you send the word at once to the United Brotherhood of Gangdom to proclaim an armistice or hour of truce for our children, not only here, in San Francisco, but all over this terrified and bewildered country we used to call the land of the free and the home of the brave?

GRANDPARENTS AROUSED

Even the grandmothers are going to pieces under it, and as for the grandfathers, they really are beginning to be what the old-fashioned folks down South used to call "fit to be tied."

When school is out in the afternoon, it is the same thing.

I happened to spend Sunday in the country at the house of a friend, and learned that on the day before yesterday five different sets of children were called up and instructed when to come for the parents, and every mother said over the telephone:

"Keep together, children. Don't separate for a minute, and if any one tries to stop the car, don't let it slow down."

ATTEMPTS IN DAYLIGHT

Here in San Francisco we have had four attempts at kidnaping in broad daylight, in the open streets of our free and enlightened city.

If this keeps on we're going to turn into a nation of nervous wrecks.

And it is hard on the children, too. They need fresh air and sunshine. Dear, kind, Mr. Spitale, won't you please fix this up for us? Send out the word by the mysterious grapevine underworld telegraph and give our children one little hour a day to be safe.

The police have failed, the machinery of the law has broken down, the federal government appears to be helpless, and even if we called out the United States Army and the Marines, too, they probably couldn't do a thing.

Remember, signor, that it is the women of America who brought about prohibition, which has given you your great and marvelous chance and started the whole racketeering business, and it is the women of America who appeal to you, sir.

ONLY ASKING SAFETY

We don't know where else to appeal, any more than poor Col. Lindbergh and his wife.

Never mind what other countries say about us, pay no attention to the jibes and jeers of nations which know how to protect their honest and law-abiding citizens.

We have reached the point where we don't care a snap for them or their citizens, or our own citizens either. All we ask is safety for our children.

Please, Mr. Spitale, let us keep them.

STOPPED OFTEN IN LINDY HUNT

Mrs. Pasquale Odato, of 3614 Brownsville road, had first hand information today of the thoroughness of the search being conducted throughout Western Pennsylvania for Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., and his abductors.

Yesterday during an automobile trip with her son Nick, who was driving the machine, and her baby, Richard, 16 months, Mrs. Odato was stopped and questioned 11 times. She convinced the officers of the truth of her story until she reached the city, she said.

City patrolmen stopped the car on the Liberty Bridge and she said she was afraid she would never be freed again until she thought of the baby's baptism certificate. Police released her after a conversation with the priest who baptized the infant.

Police Seek Kidnaping Clues Among Members Of Lindy's Household

To this Col. Schwartzkopf replied:

The baby? There has been no word of his whereabouts. No word.

Letters, yes, but when it comes to the where and when of the baby's return, they are vague. Some authorities believe that two letters received Sunday were authentic; that they came from the men who lifted Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., from his crib a week ago tonight and disappeared with him into the night.

Suggestions? Every mail brings them. Special telegraph and telephone circuits speed them into the sleepy, lonesome hill country. Cranks turn the handle on their warped minds, grinding out insane plans. Learned men and women offer ideas that are carefully considered.

HIKER IDENTIFIES SAILOR

Henry (Red) Johnson, the temporarily out-of-work deckhand, whose friendship with the Lindbergh baby's nurse, Betty Gow, brought him into the case several days ago, still was being detained in Hartford, Conn., where he drove on Wednesday last to visit his brother, has persisted in denial of any knowledge of the kidnaping.

A man named Fernino, who said a man had given him a lift in an automobile between New York and Connecticut last Wednesday, identified Johnson as that man early today. Newark police, admitting the identification, would not comment. Fernino's story was interpreted as substantiating Johnson's account of his whereabouts the day following the kidnaping.

ALL WORLD ON HUNT

The world itself has turned detective. Never in history has there been a manhunt even approaching the magnitude of this search for a 20-month-old child.

Thousands of police have been and are at work; the federal government, with its Secret Service aces and its law enforcement agencies; private detectives, volunteer workers, great organizations, and aviators, too.

Even the underworld has enlisted to solve the riddle. From a cell Al Capone offers a reward of $10,000. Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh themselves name two men associated with gang legend as go-betweens. Law and outlaw work side by side with a single objective.

The two letters, which the Associated Press heard last night on authority it regards as reliable, had been received from the kidnapers, carried information that the baby was safe. One was typed, the other written. Both were on the same kind of stationery. The Associated Press' authority said the notes apparently came from the same source as the original ransom note, which, although never revealed to newspapermen, is said to have been left on the window sill by the kidnapers.

WOULD CALL OFF POLICE

The state of New Jersey, which has extended its every resource of manpower and authority to the Lindberghs with the single objective of returning the child safely to his parents, made another gesture of helpfulness last night. It was the announcement by Gov. Moore that if the Lindberghs wished he would withdraw all police, so that the kidnapers might negotiate directly with him without fear of conflict with the law.

The governor announced also that "if the kidnapers wish to get in touch with Col. Lindbergh they can do so by mail with perfect security. He said:

"Only such mail as contains leads or tips is turned over to the police. The integrity of Col. Lindbergh is so beyond question that the kidnapers can depend entirely upon his word."

More and more, as the days have passed without the appearance of any definite proposition from the kidnapers, the fear has been expressed by newsmen close to the search that perhaps the child has been slain.

Police, however, have expressed confidence that he is alive and that the failure of the abductors to make a proposal for his return in exchange for ransom has been due to the world-wide excitement the kidnaping has created. When the hubbub dies down, these officers say, there will come cautious approaches for the baby's return.

GANGSAIDESGET FREE HAND

NEW YORK, March 8.—(INS.)—Police have adopted a "hands off" policy regarding the activities of "Salvy" Spitale and Irving Bitz, of New York, named official go-betweens by Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh in opening possible negotiations with the abductors of their baby.

Both Spitale and Bitz vanished from the overworld of society. But as a result of their broadcast that "the kid must be delivered," the underworld was humming with activity, with mysterious huddles in hideaways and sequestered back rooms, with sudden departures and abrupt arrivals.

Dame Rumor, from the shadows of the childless Lindbergh estate at Hopewell, N. J., whispered that two notes, similar in handwriting and construction to the ransom message left by the kidnapers, had been received. They were said to have declared the baby was safe, and reiterated the demand for a ransom.

Dame Rumor even went further, whispering that the Lindberghs had received a telephone call from New York from an attorney who claimed he was representing "someone" ready to negotiate for the return of the baby.

Answers of Police Vague In Quiz on Lindbergh Kidnaping Mystery

his questioning by Newark police? When is he to be released?

A—Col. Schwarskopf is not here at present. However, there was no box.

Q—Is it true that on the night of the kidnaping there were three other servants in the Lindbergh home, in addition to Betty Gow and Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Wheatley?

A—No.

Q—How long was Bitty Gow (the nurse) in the Lindbergh service? Was she ever away for any length of time on a trip or visit? Was she ever out of the service, after her first employment, for a time?

Q—Has the name of Al Capone entered the investigation? Have any offers of any kind been made to Capone and, if so, by whom?

A—No.

HINT AT DOOR ESCAPE

The possibility that the kidnapers might have been able to escape by a door from the Lindbergh home, instead of through the window, as generally supposed, was admitted today by Col. Schwartzkopf, in answering the questions submitted to him earlier. The questions and his answers follow:

Q—Would it have been possible for anyone to have left the house by any door between 8 and 10 p. m. on Tuesday, the night of the kidnaping, without Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh knowing it?

A—Yes.

Q—Has Col. Lindbergh received assurance that the baby is safe and will be returned in 12 hours?

A—It is not known to the police.

Q—Have the police received such a message?

A—No.

Q—Where were Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh when Betty Gow (the nurse) told them the child was missing?

LINDY AND WIFE WILL ABANDON LONELY HOME

Abduction Dashes Dream Of Happy Seclusion in Jersey Mountain Region

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 8.—The Sourland Mountain mansion of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is doomed to be deserted before the summer.

The great whitewashed fieldstone house on the side of a thickly wooded hill where the famous flier took his wife and small son to escape the world will never be the happy homestead it was intended to be. No matter what the result of the kidnaping of 20-month-old Charles Lindbergh, Jr., the Lindberghs will move to another home, it was learned today.

WOULD FEAR SPOT

If the little boy who is America's most famous baby is returned by his abductors, his parents will fear to live again in the solitude and remoteness of the new house.

And if he does not return, they will not be able to bear the sight of the place from which the boy was stolen.

LANDSCAPING GIVEN UP

Friends say the landscaping will not be done this spring. As planned, the raw new house in its setting of cleared forest land will not be softened by the brightness of flowers, the gentleness of green things rubbing their leaves against the smooth white stone. The Lindberghs will never have the heart to beautify their camp in the wilderness.

If little Charlie is given back they will want to take him some place where he can be watched carefully all the time, some place where in spite of prying eyes decency and kindliness prevail against violence and stealth. From the nursery window of this home the Lindberghs can only see the shadowy figure of a baby snatcher.

DISPOSITION IN DOUBT

And if the golden-haired boy is not restored to his parents, the house will be full of echoes of his baby voice, echoes that would make the spacious, tasteful abode a veritable house of horrors.

A friend said today:

"I don't know what will become of the place. It was planned so happily, so eagerly. All the pleasure Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh took in its building and furnishing has evaporated now. It is associated with tragedy, irrevocably.

"Perhaps they will not sell it. Perhaps they will keep it against the day when memories have faded sufficiently to make it bearable. But I know they can no longer love it as they once did."

'SECRET 6' HEAD URGES POLICE HALT HUNT

Truce to Permit Return of Lindbergh Baby Proposed By Crime Expert Here

Stop all police activities 48 hours to provide the kidnapers of Charles Lindbergh, Jr., an opportunity to either abandon the child and notify of its whereabouts or to negotiate for the return of the boy for ransom, is the solution suggested by Col. Robert I. Randolph, head of the Chicago "Secret Six."

Describing the situation as a hopeless muddle with police agencies working separately, Col. Randolph declared it has only driven the kidnapers crazy with fear. The head of the secret organization of businessmen who war on gangsters and big-time crime in Chicago, expressed his opinions during a visit here yesterday.

BELIEVED AMATEURS

He termed the kidnapers "amateurs." Professionals work in gangs of 10 and 12 members, he added and would know better than to select the Lindbergh heir.

Outlining his suggestion made on experience with kidnaping gangs in the Midwest, Col. Randolph said:

"Two difficulties face the 48-hour suggestion. First, it may be hard to have the police support the plan. Second, it will be hard to convince the kidnapers that they would be free from police interference in the specified time. If this or some such plan is not followed, I hate to think of the outcome. I think there is a merciful God, He'll return that child somehow."

In support of his belief the amateurs committed the deed, he explained how the profession kidnaper has a pay-off scheme that has so far prevented capture.

EXPLAINS PAY-OFF

He explained:

"There are many more kidnapings among gangsters and wealthy business men than are revealed. The collection of ransom is accomplished through a designated automobile route. The car is designated to leave a definite point at a certain time. The route has been known to cross three states. The driver has to arrive and leave the designated points at definite hours, never knowing when he must drop the money. At an arranged signal from the headlights of an oncoming machine, the money is dropped. The pay-off car must continue at least 10 miles, while the kidnapers pick up the money bundle and drive in the opposite direction. A trailing car protects the pickup machine."

RANSOM LETTE CLUE FAILS

BRISTOL, Pa., March 8.—Police today were still checking a long letter written from here to Col. Charles Lindbergh demanding $50,000 ransom for his kidnaped baby. The letter was signed with the name of a man and a Philadelphia address.

The letter demanded that the Lindberghs keep a rendezvous with the sender beneath a railroad bridge at Croyden, near here. When two men and a woman stepped their automobile at the spot, state policemen, hidden in the bushes, pounced on them, but they were released after questioning.

RED CROSS GETS U. S. WHEAT

WASHINGTON, March 8.—(AP.)—Forty million bushels of government-owned wheat are available today to feed the unemployed or distressed wherever the Red Cross may find them.

Stored in elevators as part of the Farm Board's great stabilization hoard, this wheat was liberated for relief purposes by legislation, which President Hoover signed late yesterday.

The Red Cross will have it or any part it chooses to handle converted into flour, which will be distributed direct or through local relief organizations. It will not be baked into bread, at least not through efforts of the Red Cross, which proposes to bear only the expense of distribution, even the milling cost being paid out of the grain itself.

The President signed the bill without public comment after consultation with Attorney General Mitchell, Chairman Payne of the Red Cross, Secretary Hyde and Chairman Stone of the Farm Board.

Capper Lays Ills To Stock Exchange

WASHINGTON, March 8.—(AP.)—Blame for much of the country's ills was placed today by Senator Capper (Rep.), of Kansas, in a radio address on the New York Stock Exchange and upon bankers who participated in the inflation of stock prices in 1928 and 1929. He said:

"This world's greatest gambling institution, located on Wall street, has too much control over the business of this country."

Potatoes in Pink Bags, Latest In Spring Styles

CHICAGO, March 8.—(AP.)—This spring the housewife may be carrying potatoes in lavender bags and bread wrapped in pink paper.

This was surmised from the looks of samples at the annual package and packing exposition today, where the latest ideas in wrapping and packing anything for sale or shipping from stewed prunes to washing machines are on display.

Grocery bags have taken a tip from the rainbow, and as a result shopping for the family pork and beans can now be an armful of colors instead of brown sacks.

ROOSEVELT AND SMITH IN TEST

WASHINGTON, March 8.—(AP.)—The national political spotlight swung on New Hampshire today to witness the voters' choice between Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith for the Democratic presidential nomination.

It was the first presidential primary preceding the quadrennial national conventions, and the first test of strength between the present and past New York governors' forces.

President Hoover, whose renomination is regarded by administration leaders as already in the bag, stood to pick up 32 more delegates today in Kansas, New Hampshire and South Carolina, to add to the 35 he has already, but as he was unopposed, principal interest was in the Smith-Roosevelt contest.

TAX ON BEER PROPOSED IN HOUSE

Special Recommendation Submitted; Legalization Of 2.75 Pct. Brew Asked

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—A special recommendation for a tax on 2.75 per cent beer to raise $350,000,000 a year and decrease the other tax burdens necessary to balance the budget, was submitted to the House today by Representative Cullen (Dem.) and Representative Sullivan (Dem.), of New York, and Representative McCormack (Dem.), of Massachusetts, all members of the Ways and Means Committee.

While supporting the committee's $1,096,000,000 tax bill, the trio joined in proposing an amendment to legalize and tax beer and eliminate some special taxes.

A tax on beer, they said, would make possible the elimination of the proposed tax on amusements, telegraph, telephone, radio and cable messages and exempt medicine, cereals and processed food from the sales tax and permit reduction of the rate from 2¼ per cent to 1½ per cent.

They said the Ways and Means Committee, in recommending a tax on malt syrup, wort and wine concentrate, "has recognized officially the existence of bootlegging."

A resolution which would put the Senate on record as favoring repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and local control of the liquor problem was introduced this afternoon by Senator Lewis (Dem.), of Illinois.

The Senate, if it adopted the resolution, would declare in favor of authorizing the "states by proper legislation" to control all manufacture, distribution and transportation of spiritous beverages. It would further declare that states should have the privilege of giving city or county governments the right and power of controlling their own liquor problems.

LONDON, March 8.—(AP.)—Silas Strawn, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, told American and British businessmen today at a luncheon of the American Chamber of Commerce that the United States never is likely to consent to cancellation of inter-governmental debts.

Americans, he said, contend that war debts and reparations must be considered separately, but if Europe reaches an agreement regarding reparations, then the United States will be ready to consider readjustment of inter-governmental debts.

Parliament Opens, Ulster Crowds Riot

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, March 8.—(AP.)—There was fighting in the streets this afternoon as the Duke of Abercorn, Governor of Northern Ireland, left the Parliament Building after opening the legislative session.

University students had stuck bottles on the ends of billard cues and were prodding the crowd in front of the building when somebody started to sing the "Soldiers Song," the Free State anthem, which always is likely to start a riot in Belfast. Before the fight was over several persons had been injured.

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—Sisters of St. Anthony's Convent here thought they had the Lindbergh baby yesterday. Someone left a baby resembling Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., at the convent without explanation.

The sisters, noting the resemblance, notified Councilman Henry J. Trainer, who lives near the convent. He quietly notified police, but a bit of detective work located the real mother and showed it was all a mistake.

by the Greeks, without any arbitration.

Japan is sending in more men and China, although unprepared, with the government in the north divided against that in the south, defends herself bravely.

And Russia admits bluntly that she is massing troops as close as possible to Japan's operations, to avoid any possible nonsense by Japan. The Russians are at least frank, and Japan can probably have trouble if she wants it.

Recluse Dies in Fire While Saving Wealth

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 8.—(AP.)—Daniel W. Hedding, aged recluse, around whom many rumors of great wealth have grown up, was burned to death yesterday when he ran back into his flaming house and was caught when it collapsed. He lived in an old cabin a half-mile from Willow Springs. Some neighbors thought he ran into the burning house to get his strong box.

CHURCHILL FOR UNITED EUROPE

Winston Churchill, British statesman, today had added his indorsement to the proposal of his friend, Aristide Briand, for a United States of Europe. As the French statesman, who submitted the proposal more than a year ago, lay dead last night, Churchill, speaking in Carnegie Music Hall, gave his indorsement. He said:

"I'm for it."

In its structure however, prohibition would not be included. Neither would it lean to Sovietism or the dismemberment of the British Empire.

Churchill declared regulation of liquor was making Britain temperate—that in the empire arrests for drunkenness had been cut to one-third of the figure of 1913.

The British Empire he declared a potent force in the lives of both hemispheres. Declaring there is much in the American governmental structure that England might adapt, and some British functions the United States could use, he said:

"But English-speaking people are apt to be obstinate. Tell them to go one way and they are certain to go the other."

3,000 ENTERED IN PRIMARY BATTLES

1,500 Petitions Filed on Last Day; Both Parties Facing Factional Fights

HARRISBURG, March 8.—(AP.)—Factional fights in the Republican and Democratic parties loomed today as some 3,000 candidates prepared for the battle of the primaries.

More than 1,500 nominating petitions deluged the capital yesterday, the last day for filing, and greatest interest today attached to the contests that are imminent.

The Democrats' principal primary battles center about the Roosevelt-Smith contest for convention delegates, and control of the Democratic state committee. Argument over whether the party's delegates should be instructed brought about the fight.

A fight also impends between between the organization and Pinchot forces of the Republican party over election of national convention delegates, state committeemen and state-wide offices.

Late starters in the Republican primary race included Gen. Smedley D. Butler, of Newtown Square, backed by Gov. Pinchot for Senator James J. Davis' seat; Ralph E. Flinn, of Pittsburgh, the Pinchot candidate for state Auditor General against Frank E. Baldwin, of Austin; Frank M. Clemens, of Dunmore, and Frank P. B. Thompson, of Philadelphia, for Auditor General, and State Senator George Woodward, of Philadelphia, for the United States Senate.

On the Democratic side Lewis C. Cassidy, of Philadelphia, is running for United States senator against Laurence Rupp, of Allentown, who is backed by the state committee.

INCOME TAX RETURNS

Suggestions to Aid in Making Reports to Government

Of the millions of income tax returns that are filed annually, the vast majority are from salaried persons and wage earners whose income is derived from "personal service actually rendered."

In general, compensation for personal services should be reported for taxation purposes in the year it is received or unqualifiedly made subject to demand. The mere crediting of compensation on the books of the employer to an employe is not a controlling factor, neither is the fact that the compensation was available for payment. If the services were rendered during the year 1930, or even prior thereto, but the compensation was not received until the year 1931, the entire amount is taxable in the year received when the taxpayer is reporting on the cash receipts basis. Most persons use the cash receipts basis in reporting net income.

All of the various types of compensation, unless specifically exempt by statute, should be included in the taxpayer's return of gross income, such as salaries, wages, fees, commissions, bonuses, tips, honorariums, prizes, awards, pensions in recognition of past services, etc. Other items subject to tax are fees received by ministers of the gospel for funerals, baptisms, masses, and like services; executors' fees; directors' fees; federal jury fees; and prizes received in contests of various kinds.

The salaries of federal officers and employes are subject to the income tax, except the salary of the President of the United States and federal judges. The salaries of members of the House of Representatives and members of the United States Senate also are subject to the income tax.

MASTER MIND SOUGHT IN 'FIX' QUIZ

Investigators See Gigantic Plot With Trail Leading To Higher-Ups Here

ORGANIZED PLOT SEEN

Latest developments in the investigation of alleged attempts to tamper with the jury reveal authorities declare, an organized plot. In every case it was said the prospective juror was approached with an offer of money providing he "held out to Kline."

Eakin's arrest followed disclosures made directly to Judge Watson by a member of the panel from which the Kline jury was to have been chosen. Joseph Anderson, the prospective juror made a statement to the court under oath that Eakin had told him:

"If you can do anything for Kline there'll be a nice piece of money in it for you."

Eakin, Anderson declared, also visited Stanley Gray, of Mars, another member of the panel.

Judge Watson ordered Eakin held pending the action of the grand jury investigation which he had ordered earlier in the day on petition of District Attorney Edgar H. Negley. The grand jury probe is scheduled to get under way Wednesday or Thursday.

HIGHER-UPS' MENTIONED

County Detective Michael Ford and Special Investigator Peter Connors have been working under cover in Butler County for several days. They have been trying to determine the source of the alleged jury plot, but thus far have not come upon any tangible evidence. It is their belief however, that all of those accused in the case were working under directions from someone "higher up" in Pittsburgh.

Gross, the first to be arrested, steadfastly denied his part in the alleged plot, despite positive identification by state police and members of the panel upon whom he is said to have called. Interviewed in his cell here yesterday, he said:

"It is a case of mistaken identity. They have the wrong man. I never talked to any of the jurors in this case."

State police say he has been identified by half a dozen members of the venire and a Butler County clergyman, who accompanied him to the home of at least one of the prospective jurors. No charges have been lodged against the clergyman, but it was understood he was to be called as a witness before the grand jury.

REVEALS ACTIVITIES

Cook, taken into custody by state police, made a clean breast of his connection with the case. He told them, police say, he was asked by the Pittsburgh woman for whom police are searching, to introduce her to a member of the Kline panel. He did this, he told police, thinking there was no harm in what he was doing. He identified both the woman and the man who accompanied her as her brother, police say.

District Attorney Negley summoned 15 members of the panel to appear before the grand jury yesterday. He also summoned the Butler County clergyman and another woman, said to be a relative of the Pittsburgh woman sought by police.

The District Attorney declared he would summon the entire panel if it became evident that more members had been approached. In one instance, he said he had learned from his investigation, a juror had been offered $1,000 if he would "hold out" for a verdict of acquittal.

Young People Meet In Bellevue Church

MAN CONFESSES IN TRUNK DEATH

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 8.—(AP)—Louis Fine, 50, was charged with murder today after confessing to police that he had shipped the body of his landlady, Mrs. Mattie Schaaf, 60, to Philadelphia in a trunk where it was found in a rooming house yesterday.

Fine collapsed from a heart attack immediately after making a statement and was taken to City Hospital. Authorities refused to reveal whether he had admitted the actual slaying.

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—(AP)—After charging Louis Fine, 50, with the trunk murder of Mrs. Mattie Schaaf, elderly Atlantic City rooming house owner, authorities began looking today into his past. They said they believed he had three wives and a long record of swindling women.

Fine, a former Philadelphia clothing manufacturer, was acquitted of a charge of attempting to murder his wife, Mrs. Bertha Abramson Fine, 45, last April. She charged he induced her to take a soporific and then turned on the gas. She now is living in California.

WHARF PARKING PROFITS GAIN

Transferring operation of the city's parking wharves from the Bureau of Police to the Treasurer's office has resulted in more than doubling the February income over that of last year. The change was made on the protest of the Building Owners and Managers' Association.

In a report issued today by Treasurer Richard W. Thompson he disclosed that total parking receipts for February, this year, were $4,662.60 against $1,895.60 for February, 1931.

The Building Owners and Managers' Association protested to Council sometime ago that police were inefficient in operating the wharf parking sites and that considerable revenue loss resulted.

Police formerly assigned to duty there were ordered on beats. Clerks hired by Thompson at a considerably less "were most efficient," Thompson said.

LOVED TO EAT, AND NOW SHE CAN!

Much of the suffering from so-called "indigestion" or acid-dyspepsia could be avoided if everyone could know what thousands like Miss Lillian Ralston have learned. This New York City business woman, who lives at 1160 Park Avenue, says:

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted By Leading Authorities

Reading a Strange Bid

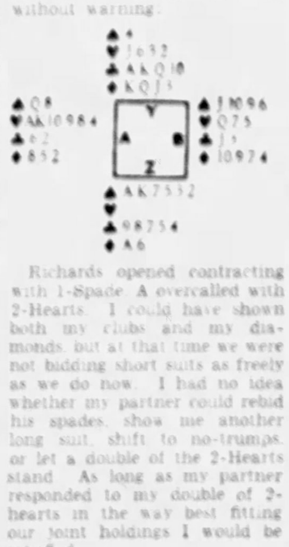
It is surprising how a born card player will read a bid that is wholly strange to him. Some considerable time ago I had for a partner Mr. R. R. Richards, then living in Detroit, but now of Los Angeles, and Dick was a natural player. The following hand shows how he read a new bid that I had been trying out, and that I sprang upon him without warning.



Richards opened contracting with 1-Spade. A overcalled with 2-Hearts. I could have shown both my clubs and my diamonds, but at that time we were not bidding short suits as freely as we do now. I had no idea whether my partner could rebid his spades, show me another long suit, shift to no-trumps, or let a double of the 2-Hearts stand. As long as my partner responded to my double of 2-hearts in the way best fitting our joint holdings I would be satisfied.

There is an analogous situation that frequently arises with hands where your partner has made an opening bid of no-trumps, and second hand has overcalled with a suit that you have twice stopped, with some good support for no-trumps, but where one very weak suit seems to make it questionable whether you should at once support partner. You double under such conditions, thereby plainly showing your holdings. Your partner may rebid his no-trumps, show a suit, or let the double stand for a penalty. While your double means business, your partner's holding must determine what will be best for the joint hands of your side. My double of the 2-Hearts, taken literally, meant that we could defeat the contract, but my double was not an order for my partner to let the double stand. The double asked my partner's opinion, but the idea was new to him.

I watched my partner as he frowned over my possible meaning. Then his face lighted; he nodded his head, remarking: "That's pretty. I never heard that before. I bid 3-Clubs."

I jumped his bid to 5-Clubs. Knowing that I favored "ace showing" his response was 5-Diamonds, to show me his ace of that suit. Assuming that his bid also showed at least the Ace of Spades, I bid 6-Clubs. I did not know whether or not he had a losing heart, so I dared not venture a grand slam. My partner could not know that we held no losers in any suit, and he dared not bid the grand slam that resulted.

The opening lead was the K of hearts, trumped by the declarer. Two rounds of clubs drew down all outstanding trumps. Leaving each of us with two clubs for ruffing off losers in the opposite hand. Mr. Richards led two rounds of spades. Dummy trumped the third round. The declarer trumped himself in with a heart led from dummy. I ruffed the fourth lead of spades, leaving two long spades with the declarer and no losers in any other suit. We could not fail to fulfill our small slam contract, with one trick over.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To quickly end stubborn coughs due to colds, it is important to soothe the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, saves money, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

A Fellow Should Take Stock Of Himself Sometimes

"What on earth is the matter with women, nowadays?" snorts Bill, indignantly.

That's easy. They don't appreciate him! ! !

To date he has offered no less than three of them a fine. A No. 1 chance to be the missis—and they all refused!

And he's really a great guy. He admits it himself, but the ladies don't seem to realize it.

Or is it that they just don't want to get married, in these days of equal rights and paychecks? Maybe.

Then again, maybe he hasn't money enough. Maybe they're passing up a fine, honest boze, and holding out for a big butter and egg man.

PUZZLED ABOUT WOMEN

Any way you take it, Bill's peeved!

"Dear Miss Martin—

"I don't suppose there is much use for me to write this letter. Being a woman you're probably unwilling to see any faults in the sex, and so the chances are you'll throw this in the waste basket. But here goes, anyway.

"What is wrong with women, these days, that they don't marry? I have read a lot about there being so many unmarried women in this country, and I'm not surprised when I think over my own experience. There must be something wrong somewhere. Is it that the modern woman is too lazy to take an interest in a home and a family? Of course, if they can get rich men I notice they marry them right along.

"Maybe that's why I have had such bad luck myself. I am not rich, it is true, but I am honest. I work hard. I am not stingy. And I would make some woman a good husband if she could just see it and give me a chance.

REFUSED THREE TIMES

"But that is just what I don't seem to get. When I was 22, I fell in love with a girl who I thought was everything a woman could be. I began to look ahead to a happy future with her, but she said 'no.' I thought that was just something that would happen to anybody and although it hurt me pretty bad I went on, still hoping. Well, the same thing has happened since then with two other girls.

"So what is the matter? Don't women want to marry any more? Are they getting so selfish that they think a husband is just one of those things? It would seem so.

"I think it is outrageous. What is going to become of this country if the women all get to thinking they're too good for the men? BILL."

That's a sad, sad story, brother, and you have my sympathy. However—

What ails women?

Maybe you do, big boy! Yep! I suspect there's a reason for your failure to make some woman appreciate you, and it isn't money; that's sure. Thousands of women marry poor men and even keep on working so they can marry 'em.

So you'd better look yourself over and try to figure out what's wrong with your technique. I can't tell you, because you haven't told me anything about it, but it's a cinch there's something that's failed to make a hit.

SOMETHING WRONG

Maybe you're too stuck on yourself. Maybe you've got an inferiority complex and make a doormat of yourself. Maybe you have never learned how to be a charming and interesting pal.

Or, perchance, you're simply aiming too high. Oddly enough, it never seems to occur to the average male that he can aim too high! Though he may be the dullest lunk-head on record, he will invariably set his heart upon the niftiest femme in sight and then wonder why she doesn't consider him a prize package! Whereas, what he should seek is some plain, useful package who isn't the belle of the ball and won't expect too much.

So sit down and do a little stock-taking. Find out what interests gals, and then learn to be it. You can't expect 'em to fall into your arms just because you wear trousers and have a bass voice.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Good Hair Depends on Health and Scalp Care

To have healthy hair two things are essential. The first of these is good physical health, and the second is proper car of the hair and scalp.

The hair receives its nourishment through the blood stream, not directly, but through the oil glands. When illness has depleted the quality of the blood, the hair is partially deprived of its regular food for growth. Then there are dullness of color and lack of vitality, and falling of the hair follows.

Dr. Copeland

Disorders of the intestine, especially chronic constipation, are most harmful to the health of the hair. The poisons generated have evil effects everywhere in the body.

In care of the hair the first requirement is cleanliness. Dust, dirt and tiny scales from the skin gather quickly on the scalp and clog the openings of the oil glands. Frequent shampoos should be given, at least one in 10 days or two weeks, according to the condition of the hair.

The best method of shampooing is to use a lather of a good quality of soap. This is much better than rubbing soap on the hair. Before applying the cleansing material, thoroughly wet the hair with plain warm water, then rub in the lather, holding the fingers in a claw-like position, moving them around on the scalp, thus combining a massage with the shampoo. After the hair and scalp are cleaned, wash well with plenty of clear warm water. Be sure to do this thoroughly, because it is harmful to permit soap to remain on the hair and scalp.

The best way to dry the hair is by means of air and sunshine. By using this method, the action of the sun will stimulate the circulation of blood through the scalp. Too long exposure to the direct rays of the sun is not advisable, as the color of the hair may be faded by too strong sunlight.

This method of drying is generally possible only in the country, but rubbing with hot towels or the hands gives an excellent luster to the hair. I am told that most beauty parlors employ dryers, either electric or gas. There is no objection to this method of drying if the heat is not too great, but intense heat gives the hair a lifeless look.

Too much oil in the hair is due to overactivity of the oil glands. The state of the general health is usually responsible for this trouble. Oily hair is likely to fall out, and on this account special care must be used to keep the scalp clean by frequent washing. Have an examination by a physician and treat the cause of the trouble. That is the sensible course to follow.

Dandruff is the name given to the powdery scales that are shed by the skin of the scalp. Sometimes they appear in an amount that gives the sufferer an untidy, unkempt appearance. Here, too, the general health may be at fault.

The local treatment for this trouble is scalp massage, using some simple oil or white vaseline. Put a small quantity of oil on the tips of the fingers each day and go thoroughly over the scalp with a circular motion. The stimulation of this simple procedure will increase the circulation of the blood through the scalp and encourage the growth of the hair.

The daily care of the hair is simple. It should be the practice to brush it regularly each night. After the brushing the scalp should be massaged as described. Shampoo regularly, once in 10 days or two weeks. Avoid constipation, because falling hair and premature grayness often are due to auto-intoxication.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Addressing Greetings

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it ever permissible to use the following:

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Jones and Family in sending out greeting cards, or in any other case when one addresses an envelope? J. G.

No, this is not in good taste, and should never be done. It does not honor the individual enough, to be included in such a blanket term.

If we have enough cards, we should send one to Mr. and Mrs., and a separate one to each member of the family old enough to receive cards. If this is too heavy a drain on our card budget, then we may address one to the daughters:

The Misses Jones

The Messrs. Jones.

Or, if we may allow only one, we may address it:

Mr. and Mrs. John Malcom Jones,
The Misses Jones,
Mr. Arthur Jones.

A Fiance's Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I wish to ask your advice about a question that has arisen between my mother and me. I am engaged to a young man who has a very good and steady position. My birthday is next month, and he wishes to give me a cedar chest. But my mother says that such a present may not be accepted by me even under the circumstances. I would like your opinion on this matter. E. A.

I am sure that your mother naturally wishes to protect your taste in every possible way, and I respect her enormously for this. But this gift is really quite correct for a fiance to make to his fiancee. Indeed it is often given, and has, naturally, a great deal of sentiment in the giving and in the idea. I can readily understand how much more you would value this gift as coming from your fiance, and it is entirely correct for him to give it to you.

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Reads Revised Act to Veritzen

Philip Veritzen was standing by the library window as I entered the room, and as he turned at my entrance I saw that he was smiling as if he were highly amused about something. But, characteristically, he did not voice his amusement until he had given me his usual punctilious formal greeting, raising one of my hands to his lips. Then he took the manuscript from the other, and laid the pages upon the table.

"This will keep," he said; "do come to the window and see this little by-play out here."

I followed him, wondering, and as he drew back the curtain I saw my neighbor, Sam Ticer, with his son, Jerry, and two other men even more characteristically of the countryside than the father and son who have afforded us so much amusement with their peculiar mannerisms, at the same time that they had given us loyal and efficient service.

"If I stage that," Mr. Veritzen said, "they would say I was exaggerating."

I mentally agreed with him as I watched the four men seated under the big linden, 50 feet from the library window. It was the tree which afforded the best shade of any of the trees around the house. Sam Ticer was seated with his back against the linden and with his legs stretched out directly in front of him. The two strangers were half lying, half sitting upon the grass and Jerry Ticer was cross-legged like a brass Buddha directly in front of his father. All four were chewing gum or tobacco with a rhythmic motion that I would have sworn was timed in unison to each other. In the right hand of each was a jackknife and in the left hand a pine stick. Long shavings upon the grass and constantly increasing, showed how assiduously the four were indulging in the time-honored American pastime of whittling.

"They haven't spoken a word for almost five minutes," Mr. Veritzen said. "When I first looked out of the window, the taller of the two men was haranguing the elder Ticer chap who seems to be the leader of the party. Ticer listened to him without moving a muscle of his face except those devoted to chewing and unless he answered him at the time you came into the room, he hasn't spoken since. Ah! he seems to be going into action now!"

As we watched, Sam Ticer laid down the stick he was whittling, closed his jackknife, thrust it into his pocket and shifted whatever he was chewing from his right cheek to his left. Then he spoke. We could hear his drawling tones and see his lips move, but though the window was opened, we could not understand a word of what he was saying.

But that it spelled a decision we saw when Jerry and the other two men in turn threw away their sticks and pocketed their jackknives. Then Dicky came around the corner of the house and all four of the men rose and followed Sam Ticer's movement toward him. They halted in a formation, ludicrously like that of wild geese, behind Sam, who began to talk to Dicky with much swinging of his long arms and much pointing toward the orchard back of the house.

At once particularly emphatic gesticulation, Dicky wheeled to a position which brought his eyes directly opposite the window at which Mr. Veritzen and I were standing. As he caught sight of us, he started perceptibly, then waved his hand toward us with ostentatious casualness. It was a second or two before Dicky turned away and the men followed him around the corner of the house.

"Exit the hero, followed by faithful retainers," Mr. Veritzen said with a smile. "Didn't I tell you they wouldn't believe the scene if I put it on?"

But I was paying no attention to his artistic speculation. There had been something almost furtive in Dicky's manner as he led the Ticer clan away from our side of the house. What on earth, in his mother's parlance, was he "up to?"

Mr. Veritzen's voice snapped me to attention.

"Enough of the rural comedy," he said. "Let us turn to the high-powered drama!"

He picked up the manuscript and looked with approval at the carefully typed pages.

"You are very kind," he said, "to remember my idiosyncrasies. An erasure or a blot spoils my day. And, now, if you please, will you read to me that portion of the third act which you have revised?"

I took the manuscript from his hand and, turning to the page where Vickers made his first entrance in the act, I read the dialogue which I had changed. I had hard work to keep my voice from trembling as I read, and when the last line of the last speech was ended, I could not raise my eyes to Mr. Veritzen's face, so doubtful was I of what would be the verdict which I soon should hear from his lips.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Bleeding teeth and receding gums result from deposits of tartar, which should be removed twice a year by means of the dentist's chisels and pickaxes. Bleeding gums invite infection. Very bad.

When eruptions or any form of a rash appears on the scalp, it is high time to see a first-class specialist, a medical man who understands this line of work. Scalp diseases can prove stubborn and the penalty may be loss of hair. Digging the scalp with the fingernails is not for any mortal, since fingertips are often germ-laden, and carry bacteria into abrasions.

Blackheads are a common trouble, but they nearly always settle on the complexion that is coarse of texture and given to showing up an oily surface. Such a skin requires stimulating treatments, plenty of cold water and witch hazel, considerable tapping and patting to urge glands and pores to function normally. Cutting down on sweets, fats and starches—though not deleting them completely—has been known to influence a bad complexion to reform.

Household Hints

Pastry that is to be served cold should be mixed with milk, which will keep it short and crisp.

Roast joints warmed up again keep their original fresh taste if placed in cold water before being put in the oven.

To prevent cabbage boiling over put a piece of butter or dripping the size of a walnut into the water as soon as it comes to a boil.

When using vinegar for pickling, place a small piece of horseradish in the jar. If this method is adopted there will be no danger of the vinegar losing its strength.

In Maytair —With— Patricia Pitt

The breath-taking winds and the zero-aspiring temperature last night failed to keep society from faring forth to Carnegie Music Hall to hear Winston Churchill.

Among the younger set represented at the lecture was Betty McKay. The Frederick Blackburns were there with Mrs. Blackburn wearing black chiffon and a white bunny coat. Mrs. George L. Craig Jr., Evelyn Evans, and Mrs. T. Howe Nimick were others there. Mrs. Craig wore black velvet and a long coat of mink, and Mrs. Nimick wore a striking gown of magenta velvet and a coat of black broadtail.

Norman Allderdice, Andre Avinoff and his sister, Mme. Elizabeth Shoumatoff, in scarlet velvet embroidered in gold, were there. Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, accompanied Mr. Avinoff.

Debutante Attends

Representing the debutantes of the season just over was tall, slender Caroline Mitchell in black velvet and a black velvet and ermine wrap. She came with her mother, Mrs. Harry S. Mitchell.

Others I noted were the Roy A. Hunts, with Mrs. Hunt in a mink wrap; Mrs. John W. Lawrence, wearing a wrap of silver galyak, and Mrs. John F. Walton, wearing black chiffon and a wrap of black velvet collared in chinchilla.

The Samuel Harden Churches were chatting with friends in the foyer before the lecture. Mrs. Church looked striking in a gown of black lace. Marjorie Kimball was in black crepe with a smart wrap of black velvet trimmed in white fox.

Mrs. George Singer Ebbert chose a gown of black velvet, and Mrs. G. Cook Kimball, black lace. Mrs. Simon T. Patterson in sunset crepe, and Mrs. A. Rex Flinn in scarlet crepe with long coats of mink were in the audience.

In Black Velvet

I also saw the A. P. Brills with Mrs. Brill wearing a long, fitted black velvet wrap having a shawl collar and deep flaring cuffs of ermine.

The Leonard S. Mudges and the Raymond Ford Morelands I noticed among the late arrivals. Mrs. Mudge wore lipstick red chiffon and a sable wrap, and Mrs. Moreland a mink coat. And I saw the David I. McCahills there.

* * *

Recent arrivals at the Vinoy Hotel, St. Petersburg, include Mrs. Alfred Hicks, Dr. C. L. Lewis, the C. A. Brooks and the John Corrins.

* * *

Wilkinsburg's 'Magazine Cover' Is Attractive

With a particularly attractive setting as the "cover design" for their "spring magazine," members of the Woman's Club of Wilkinsburg got out their annual publication yesterday, with Mrs. Charles Tyler as leader. Harper each gave an original poem; Mrs. Albert J. Dawson contributed a "true story;" Mrs. W. M. Findley and Mrs. George Taylor, Jr., were the "travel editors;" Mrs. W. P. Hampson and Mrs. William L. Grubb conducted the garden department of the magazine; Mrs. Roy Hodgdon had an article on interior decorating, and Mrs. W. G. Reineman, the fashion editor, supervised a style show in which the models were club members. There was also an original song, written and conducted by Mrs. F. F. Rohrer.

Former President Is Proposed As Leader of Sewickley Valley Woman's Club

Mrs. John Easton McKirdy, who has served the club before in the same capacity and who is a former district president of the State Federation, has been nominated to the presidency of the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club. The ticket also includes Mrs. Robert M. Keeney, vice president; Mrs. Neill S. Brown, III, recording secretary; Mrs. W. Woodward Miller, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. William Booth Miller, treasurer.

The nominating committee was made up of Mrs. Robert Wardrop, Mrs. John M. Tate, Jr., Mrs. Alexander J. Barron, Mrs. Tracy W. Guthrie and Mrs. George Phelps Rose, the chairman. The ticket will be voted upon in April.

In her talk on "International Aspects of Social Reform," before the club yesterday, Dame Rachel Crowdy, distinguished Briton said it has been calculated that $7,000,000 has been spent in illicit drug traffic in the last five years. She also stated that 100 tons of morphine and six tons of cocaine had been seized in that time. Her talk was largely along the same lines as those on which she spoke before the Twentieth Century Club on her last Pittsburgh visit. She devoted most of it to discussion of the white slave traffic and to description of a typhus campaign in Poland on which commission she was the only woman, having been appointed by the League of Nations.

Cost of Drug Evil

Under the direction of Mrs. William Wade Grinstead, drama department chairman, the club will present three one-act plays on Monday, March 21, at the meeting in the Edgeworth Club. ## Dr. Mearns Gives Talk At 20th Century Club

Dr. Hughes Mearns, noted educator, was delayed by the storm and appeared late at the Twentieth Century Club yesterday morning for his talk on "Unguessed Gifts." Before he arrived, Miss Helen Machete, club choral accompanist, gave a short piano recital.

Dr. Mearns said that youth is thinking seriously, if skeptically, today and that adults must have a special setup for it in their judgment. Youth cannot develop as "pattern people" and their crudities, coming from the inside, are to be preferred to the carefully thought out and stereotyped expressions of the past.

He told of several interesting cases which have come under his own observation, showing the accidental discoveries of "unguessed gifts." Linda Watkins, stage and screen star, for instance, a former pupil of Dr. Mearns, gave little promise for a future at one stage of her education. He also mentioned others who have gained national and international reputations.

OHIO KIDNAPING TRIAL SPEEDED

WARREN, O., March 8.—(AP.)—The speediest criminal prosecution in the history of Trumbull County is planned for the kidnapers of 11-year-old James De Jute, Jr., who was rescued unharmed Saturday.

Two men captured when the boy was found in an abandoned gambling house near Youngstown were indicted yesterday by the county grand jury on charges of kidnaping with attempt to extort.

A similar indictment was returned for a third man, alleged leader in the plot, who was still hunted by the authorities.

Prosecutor B. H. Birrell said the two arrested would be arraigned today, and if possible would be brought to trial Thursday. The maximum penalty is life imprisonment.

The two men captured were Dowell Hargraves, 31, and John De Marco, 30, both of Youngstown. Police said De Marco insisted he did not participate in the kidnaping, and that he went to the house only to purchase liquor.

MELLONS GIVE TO G. O. P. FUND

Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury, and now ambassador to the Court of St. James, and his brother, R. B. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, contributed $5,000, while W. L. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, gave $1,000.

Other contributors included: W. W. Atterbury, of New York, head of the Pennsylvania Railroad interests, $500; Howard Heinz and E. T. Weir, both of Pittsburgh, and E. R. Crawford, McKeesport, Pa., $1,000 each.

SHEER MATERIALS LEAD IN FASHIONING EVENING GOWNS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 8. — For frocks that are a sheer delight we can turn with confidence to this spring's crop of evening frocks. For sheers are back again, with our old and trusty friend, chiffon, in the vanguard of the procession. And so those who feel that their wardrobe is incomplete without a black chiffon frock are going to be in luck this year, for nearly every house is showing some most attractive models. All sorts of interesting treatments have been accorded the new models. Decolletes, having used up all the variations of the V's and U's have now turned to the Y's to express themselves. We think that you will like the new Y back decolletage. It certainly does break the wide expanse of flesh that the other types showed so generously and the contrast of the black chiffon against white skin is most attractive.

* * *

AS HAS BEEN previously remarked, Riviera styles always point the way to the spring tendencies. And so we have had sketched two very lovely evening frocks both worn at the Cannes Casino, firm in the knowledge that both models are of the type that will prevail during the spring and summer. The left hand sketch shows an all black chiffon model. The front of the bodice has a V shaped neckline to which is attached at one side the scarf seen in the back view. The Y shaped back is typical of the odd decolletes one sees everywhere just now. A deep apron reaching nearly to the floor and edged with a circular flounce covers the entire front of the skirt. It mounts in back where the ruffle gradually narrows. The front of the bodice is in one piece with the apron skirt.

* * *

THE OTHER DRESS is of navy blue tulle and is built entirely of narrow ruffles. On the bodice and on top of the skirt the ruffles are almost flat, so slight is the circular flare. For the remainder of the skirt, however, they are very frilly and crisp. A long spray of red and light blue flowers in tulle edges one side of the deep neckline reaching onto the lower part of the bodice. Navy blue and fabric flowers are two important notes for spring evening wear that are foreshadowed in this model.

BUCHAREST, March 8.—(INS.)—Two passenger trains collided head-on near Maltesy today with a death toll of at least 10.

2 DIE AS PLANE HITS WINDMILL

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., March 8.—(INS.)—Two pilots were killed and three others training for airplane examinations were seriously injured today when a Century Airlines training plane struck a windmill and crashed on the rim of Curtiss-Steinberg field, East St. Louis.

The dead were L. H. Atkinson, and James S. Kirk, both of Chicago. The injured are Sidney Cleveland, Ira Smalling and Theodore Grass.

Smalling and Grass were piloting the Stinson-Detroiter dual control 10-passenger plane, according to officials of the company, when the left wing of the plane was sheared from the craft by the windmill. The plane hurtled to the ground, a mass of wreckage.

Each of the pilots had a transport license, it was reported. The men were touring various fields to get experience in night landing.

Dr Reid said the principal points expected to be discussed are subscription terms and the membership covenant. Serving on the editorial committee are the Rev. Dr. Lewis S. Mudge, of Philadelphia, and moderator of the Presbyterian Church; the Rev. Dr Robert E. Speer, New York; the Rev. Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, Princeton Seminary; Judge John H. ## Pershing Well, But Stays in Hospital

WASHINGTON, March 8.—(Universal.)—Gen. John J. It was said it would be inadvisable for him to go home until he has had a complete rest.

TEACHER SOBS DURING TRIAL

Testifying he was asked in the presence of Public School Supt. Ben G. Graham, then associate superintendent, and Elmer G. Miller, if he intended to proceed with his damage suit alleging slander against Harry E. Winner, principal of South Hills High School, Strawder A. Ringer, 42, of 33 Pasadena street, former instructor, broke down and sobbed on the witness stand today in Common Pleas Court.

Ringer testified the questioning occurred in June, 1930, and that he was not reappointed for the next school term.

Ringer is asking damages for alleged injury to his reputation. Ringer said Winner had told him of informing other persons that a girl pupil was Ringer's "affinity" and that the two "hid about the building like truants."

Widow, 66, to Wed Composer, Aged 31

NEW YORK, March 8.—(AP.)—The marriage of Mrs. Lillian Bacon Mallory, 66, and Delbert Avery Danenbaugh, 31, which was to have taken place tomorrow, has been postponed pending the arrival of the bride-to-be's brother, Frank Bacon, of Milwaukee.

The ceremony probably will take place within a few days, Mrs. Mallory indicated. Mrs. Mallory was born in Milwaukee, the daughter of Edward P. Bacon. Her first husband, Rollind B. Mallory, died in 1916. Danenbaugh, a composer, was born in Waterloo, Ia., the son of Avery U. Danenbaugh.

REFRIGERATION MEN MEET

That the electric refrigeration industry outlook for this year indicates increased business was the prediction of J. J. Nance, manager of the sales planning division, Frigidaire Corporation, during the annual sales meeting here.

Mr. Nance

The industry is like the automobile field of 15 years ago, he said, and its future is equal to the motor market of today. Nance directed an all-day meeting yesterday at the William Penn Hotel for salesmen and dealers. A complete stage show with five tons of equipment to dramatize sales messages was used.

The first announcement was made of a price reduction in the entire line of Frigidaires. The industry disposed of 957,000 units last year, Nance said, which included a 35 per cent increase for his company.

Two Men Indicted In Holdup Slaying

Good morning! have you ever lost a tooth?

Make tomorrow's a good morning. Start a new tooth-protection habit

If you have all your teeth you are fortunate. Nearly everyone who has been in this world very long knows the shock of the first lost tooth. When will the next one go? How many will you finally lose? What will you do to protect and keep safe your own natural teeth?

It is well known that four out of five people past the age of forty have pyorrhea. It is not so well known, however, that pyorrhea may be at work in your gums five or ten years and even longer before it advertises itself. But once it has started—well, half of the adult teeth lost are due to pyorrhea!

Don't wait. Take these two precautions now against "lost teeth." First, be sure not to forget the address of your dentist. You're paying no compliment to only go to him in time of trouble. Visit him twice a year, anyway. He is a real friend in need. Second, pick out a toothpaste that does more than polish your teeth. Forhan's Toothpaste is a thoroughly good cleanser—none better. But it takes care of the gums too, and that is mighty important, because you cannot have healthy teeth in unhealthy gums. Dr. R. J. Forhan worked 26 years as a pyorrhea specialist, and his exclusive formula cannot be obtained by the public except in Forhan's Toothpaste. Get ahead of pyorrhea. Prevention is the only way. Take it seriously and you will not be sorry. Start today with Forhan's. All druggists.

Sale of Baby Bonds Slow On Opening Day; Many Savings Account Deposits

An increase in the amount of currency flowing back into Pittsburgh business channels through the re-opening of savings accounts and purchases of securities was reported by officials of the Citizens' Reconstruction Organization as the drive to stimulate the active circulation of money entered its second day.

Sales of "United States Baby Bonds" were slow at local banks yesterday, the first of the 10 days during which the sale of this new type of security is to be pushed. This may be accounted for by the fact that banks are now only equipped to take applications for subscriptions and actual bonds will not be ready until March 15.

The flowing of these additional sums of money back into circulation was taken by A. W. Robertson, chairman of the state organization, as an indication that the educational program incorporated into the campaign to bring about a restoration of confidence, was accomplishing its purpose. Although local sales of the bonds were slow, the organization officials were elated over reports that definitely indicated money was being returned to productive sources.

The "Baby Bonds" when ready may be obtained at any bank which has qualified as a war loan depository under Act of Congress of 1917. The bonds, redeemable at 2 per cent interest on 60-day notice, mature with the same interest on March 15, 1932, and come in denominations of $50, $100 and $500. Certificates of purchase may be obtained at local banks which will deliver the bonds to the buyer on or before March 15, 1932.

Refused Aid With Moving, Woman Wins Divorce

Moving day was a source of complaint by Bertha M. Cunningham, granted a divorce from Elmer G. Cunningham, Tarentum, by Judge Ambrose B. Reid. Though her husband was a teamster, he did not help with the moving, while she carried the mattress and other bulky objects, she said, adding:

"All he moved was his hunting dog."

Memorial Meeting To Honor Cohen

An address on "The Life and Work of Josiah Cohen" will be delivered by Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, of Rodef Shalom Temple. Eugene Strassburger will be chairman of the meeting.

Ambridge Ferryman Found Dead of Gas

Anton Sinek, 40, a ferryman, of 1223 Merchant street, Ambridge, was dead today, a victim of carbon monoxide gas, according to a Coroner's report.

He was found dead last night in the cabin of his boat at the site of the new South Tenth Street Bridge. Sinek, who operated the ferry for workmen on the bridge, failed to answer calls of workmen yesterday morning. The body was discovered after the workmen became alarmed over his absence.

TETLEY TEA

Make $1 do the work of $3 in checking sore throat colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth washes. Hence, it goes 3 times as far. That's economy for you! Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength to be effective?

THE great economy of Pepsodent Antiseptic is the result of its high germ-killing power. That's where the difference lies between it and old-style antiseptics. When fighting sore throat colds and Bad Breath (Halitosis), remember, there are really only two leading kinds of antiseptics. On the one hand you have the mouth wash that must be used full strength to be effective. On the other hand you have Pepsodent Antiseptic—utterly safe when used full strength, yet powerful enough to be diluted with 2 parts of water and yet kill germs in less than 10 seconds. Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you extra protection against stubborn colds, and throat irritations. When choosing your mouth antiseptic, be sure you choose the one that kills the germs even when diluted? Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe! Be safe—and save money!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)
The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds, proves its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent Antiseptic is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, it kills germs even when diluted with water!

Shrider, of 106 Marion St. "But Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery gave me quick relief from my ailments—two or three bottles made me feel like an entirely different person. ## POLITICS

Guideposts Uprooted In Primary Campaign

By MARK SHIELDS

Another week will be required to determine who will be the candidates for state, national and party offices at the April primary election.

Mr. Shields

There won't be any more entries, for which we may be thankful. Yesterday was the last day a patriot seeking to serve his state or nation might file a petition at Harrisburg to become eligible for the scramble for nomination.

But there remain seven days in which negotiations can proceed and trades be arranged toward reducing the field, removing from the path of one candidate another gentleman—or lady—whose candidacy might prove an obstacle. There will be special efforts along this route in some districts where both organization and independent groups wish the opportunity to concentrate their strength, but which they cannot do now because of the multiplicity of candidates.

Even with such withdrawals as may occur, there will be shoals of candidates, especially in some legislative districts of Allegheny County. The normal percentage of withdrawals will not be reached this year, in all probability. Economic conditions make this a campaign of uncertainties, wherein all theories and guideposts are uprooted. "No one may say with accuracy how far the automatic attack on the "ins" as responsible for all the ills of the world will extend.

It is on this blind disposition of the voters to blame those in office for everything wrong that many of those seeking office are counting for an impetus toward success.

* * *

Battle to Center Behind Stadtfeld

The only stable slate anywhere in the state, with the possible exception of the Vare Congressional slate in Philadelphia, is the ticket of the Philadelphia-state organization group for state and national office. There will be no change in that slate, which is headed by Senator James J. Davis and rear-guarded by Judge William M. Parker, of Venango County, seeking election to the Superior Court.

The other state slate, engineered by Gov. Pinchot, assisted by Allegheny County Independents and launched with the assumption that it would receive assistance of Allegheny County organization men displeased with slights to their pride, probably will not be altered as to personnel, but there will be some strange shifts in its support. In fact, it will not have from any organization leader complete backing, and as time goes on some of its component parts may be largely forgotten, the battle centering behind the effort to elect Judge Joseph Stadtfeld to the Superior Court.

As to this no one may say, because even his strongest rooters do not know what impression Gen. Smedley Butler will make as a candidate for the Senate. That he will be entertaining no one doubts. That he will be emphatic, and snappishly accusatory, is just as certain.

But whether he will be regarded as just another public entertainer or a potential statesman remains to be decided by the reaction of the populace. The General probably will have big crowds, and he will not be reticent in speech.

He has proved that on at least two visits to Pittsburgh, the last time running foul of Washington as he described how the Marines ran elections in Nicaragua. Their tactics, the General said—rather boastfully—made the Philadelphia organization look like amateurs at controlling the vote.

* * *

Pinchot May Join Butler on Stump

It is possible the General will devote as much, or more, attention to Herbert Hoover as to his opponent, Davis. Expectations are that on some of his stumping tours the General will be accompanied by Gov. Pinchot.

Neither cares a great deal for Davis, but each would also relish the opportunity to jibe at the President. Gen. Butler has not forgotten the way he was called on the carpet when he gave what Premier Mussolini, of Italy, considered was a slight to his honor. Mr. Pinchot has not forgotten the manner in which he has been high-hatted by the President.

Before the campaign is over an effort will be made by the Governor and the General to put Davis in the role of apologist for the Hoover administration, and as a former member of the cabinet, as partially responsible for the ills which the attacking duet will charge have been brought on by Mr. Hoover's alleged ineptitude.

If Mr Davis refuses to be drawn in as a Hoover defender, then watch for the General and the Governor to go after the President direct. All of which will be preliminary to a demonstration at Chicago by Mr Pinchot, a demonstration which will occur as certain as anything can be certain in politics.

INCREASED TAX BURDEN SEEN IN BONDS

More Time Asked to Study Situation as Presented; Error Causes Delay

Declaring that the taxpayers of Pittsburgh could not bear increased taxes, Mayor Kline today asked for more time to consider declaring a public emergency that would open the way to a relief appropriation of $500,000.

The Mayor told the executive committee of the Allegheny County Emergency Association which called to formally appraise him of the contemplated appropriation as well as a city bond issue of $5,000,000.

"As this is the first time the proposal has been presented to me, I must study it. Taxpayers of the city cannot stand the strain of increased taxation. Have I the consent of the people who ask for tax reduction to respond to this cause?"

WAXES SARCASTIC

The Mayor waxed sarcastic when the committee first entered his private office, presumably because of failure of the committee to consult him before presenting their proposal to councilmen Saturday.

He said:

"You did not know that you had to obtain the consent of the Mayor."

Frank B. Bell, spokesman for the group, replied:

"No. Many members of our committee had left before Saturday's conference with Council ended."

When the Mayor asked for more time, Frank R. Phillips, president of the Philadelphia Company and chairman of the executive committee of the Emergency Association countered:

"The situation constitutes an absolute emergency. When we have a turbine blow up we have to replace it."

SEES TAX BURDEN

Mayor Kline responded:

"You know I owe a duty to the peopel of Pittsburgh in regard to taxes. We start this year with a deficit of $916,000 and now it is proposed to add $500,000 more. The only way we can get it back is by direct taxation.

"What will the Chamber of Commerce, the Real Estate Board an dthese other organizations say to that? It will take 2 mills to meet the deficit and the proposed appropriation."

The Mayor added that the city at present it $3,000,000 short on tax collections for 1932, and that many taxpayers are now paying quarterly instead of in a lump sum.

Bell outlined the proposed plan which he said included a supplemental public drive for funds, the $500,000 immediate relief fund by city appropriation, the $5,000,000 city bond issue and a $10,000,000 county bond issue.

POINTED QUESTIONS

Controller James P. Kerr put pointed questions to the emergency leaders during the meeting. He inquired if the lack of funds by the Emergency Association was

Fate of Vanished Barbara Perichak Still Mystery

Her hopes briefly buoyed by the belief that Barbara Stanwyck, screen actress, might be her daughter, who has been missing for seven years, a Braddock Township mother today saw her lastest dream castle crumble.

Seven years ago Barbara Perichak, then 15, left her home at 275 McKinley street, Braddock Township. That was the last time her family saw her.

She left a note saying she was going to Cleveland to be married. Before she left, she drew her pay, $27, from Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, where she had worked then as a coiler.

Some time latter, Barbara called a neighbor by telephone from New York and told her she would like to come home. Since then nothing has been heard from her.

A few weeks ago her mother, Mrs. Cecilia Perichak, 48, now a widow, who does housework to help support her five other children, saw Miss Stanwyck for the first time.

She thought she noted facial resemblances and characteristics of speech which made her believe Miss Stanwyck was her daughter.

Investigation in New York today, however, disclosed that the actress was born in Brooklyn in 1910 and orphaned when she was two years old.

LET ASPINWALL HOSPITAL JOB

WASHINGTON, March 8.—(AP.)—Hospitalization facilities for Pennsylvania veterans of the World War will be nearly doubled within a year.

The Veterans' Administration awarded a contract yesterday for an addition to the Aspinwall Hospital which will bring the total capacity of the two strictly veterans' hospitals in the state to 1,430 beds.

Construction is already under way of a 478-bed addition to Coatesville. Both are to be completed in about 9 months.

The Henry B. Ryman Company, of Chicago, won the contract for the Aspinwall extension at its bid of $375,000. The contract embraces construction of five buildings, including one structure to house 200 more beds, giving the hospital 469 in all. The other buildings are to provide quarters for the hospital staff.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, March 8.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Out of 120 million people, if Lindbergh had had as much advice on how to fly the ocean as he has on this case, he would have cracked up in St. Louis. I think the boy has used splendid judgment in this, the same as he has in everything he has done since we first heard of him. Remember it was his sober judgment that first suggested "get the baby back at any cost," and then start worrying what the punishment would be. If they caught 'em. And remember there is other kidnaped ones out that are just as dear to their folks as this baby of his, so get all the folks in that's kidnaped, then make some new laws and start over again.

Yours, WILL.

Taxes for All Things That Have Been Overlooked

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

That new billion dollar tax bill is sliding through Congress like a catfish heading down the Missouri River.

There ain't nothing to stop it. Everybody is waving it along like a hero going to the front.

It's surprising how few things it taxes. All it does is plaster everything that has never been taxed before.

You've got to pay an assessment on telephone calls over 20 cents. That's going to be tough on those sweetheart calls in drugstores where the sap hangs on to the booth until it is covered with ivy.

Lubricating oil and malt syrup are also taxable luxuries whether you take 'em separate or mix 'em.

Well, we always wanted taxation with representation. We got it.

Patient Gets Examination, Then Robs Doctor

He entered the office of Dr. John Ballani, of 438 East Fifth avenue, Homestead, a member of the borough council, and asked for a physical examination, giving the name of a patient as reference.

As the physician pronounced him fit the "patient" presented a $20 bill in payment. When the doctor reached in his pocket for change the man drew a gun and said:

"Never mind, I'll take that wallet."

He took the pocketbook, containing $40, warned Dr. Ballani not to make an outcry, and fled according to police.

Controller Kerr asked if it were true that where a person owned a house they could not receive aid. A. K. Oliver and Mr. Phillips answered that such is not true at present.

Kerr replied:

"Well it's true in some cases that I know of."

He then asked if a person who owns a radio can get help and was told they could.

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 26 years, and calomel substitute expert, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

The richness of the upholstery fabrics—the luxurious depth to the cushions and seats—the beauty of the tailoring and the fitments . . . . all are so outstanding, by comparison, that they come as a startling revelation to the customer. And the difference in performance is, of course, equally pronounced. The steadiness on the road at all speeds—the marvelous smoothness and silence of the motor and chassis—the easy and certain control under all driving conditions none of these can ever be appreciated without an actual test drive at the wheel. In fact, it has been our experience that most people who have had a thorough demonstration of Cadillac-La Salle performance are never satisfied until they have a Cadillac or La Salle of their own. # 19TH WARD VOTE JUDGE TO HEAR FATE FRIDAY

Harkins Enters Guilty Plea While Two Other Board Members Affirm Innocence

B. W. Harkins, 58, judge of elections in the Sixteenth district of the Nineteenth Ward, will be sentenced Friday by Judge W. Heber Dithrich after a further hearing is held, following his plea of guilty late yesterday to negligence in counting the votes for County Commissioner while judge at the September primary.

Two other members of the election board, Henry Vetter, 84, and William Veitmeier, 66, said they were innocent and would stand trial rather than enter proffered pleas of no defense.

Vetter, who has served 18 years continuously on the board, said he called off the County Commissioner vote, and that Veitmeier marked it down. He could not understand how the return board and District Attorney could find 140 erasures on the ballots and changes of from 100 to 200 in the result.

Refuse Tipple Permit At Garfield Mine

The Zoning Board of Appeals yesterday refused to Charles C. Culver a permit for the erection of a tipple at the entrance to a coal mine in North Atlantic avenue near Rosetta street, Garfield. Neighbors appeared before the board and complained that the operation of the mine was a nuisance.

A survey of the mine made by the City Bureau of Engineering indicated that some of the coal which had been removed had been taken from under Rosetta street. The greater part of the workings is on property which Culver said he purchased in 1926.

COLDS

Break Up in a Jiffy

This Quick Way

Feel Like A New Man Almost Before You Know It

People have found out that new-fangled ideas and notions don't break up colds. So millions have turned back to first principles and use what they know breaks one up in a jiffy.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow direction on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Things will loosen up, your head will clear; aching go. Soon you'll start to feel like a new person.

Get Hill's now. It is a scientific formula made to do one thing well: to knock a cold—not to cure a thousand ailments. Get your money back if it doesn't work with twice the speed of anything you've ever tried.

HILL'S Cascara Quinine Compound

(Advertisement)

Gray Hair

Best Remedy is Made At Home

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Piles

No matter how painful, itching or uncomfortable any case of piles may be, Pazo Ointment will give relief the moment it is applied—or money back. Easily used with pile pipe 10c, or tube 60c. All druggists.

APPEAL DENIED, POWERS SILENT

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 8.—(AP.)—Harry F. Powers, condemned "bluebeard" had nothing to say yesterday when informed a review of his case had been denied.

Warden A. C. Scroggins will make no preparation for the execution until he has been officially advised of the denial. He said that when Powers is moved to the death house, other prisoners housed there will be moved to new sleeping quarters.

Powers is to be hanged March 18 "between the hours of sunrise and sunset" under the sentence imposed by Judge John C. Southern. The sun sets March 18.

Collectors Balked In Criminal Court

To discourage use of the Criminal Court as a collecting agency, Judge Elder W. Marshall fined a defendant $800, which will go to the county, instead of ordering the man to make restitution of that amount to an automobile finance company, which had had him apprehended.

The defendant, Isidore Goldblum, 28, 1428 Jancey street, was charged with larceny by bailee. It was asserted he got an automobile by making the required down-payment and sold the car while still owing the $800 balance. When he pleaded guilty Judge Marshall paroled him for two years, after fining him the $800, stipulating he must pay the fine within the time of the parole.

COUPLE ROBBED BY GUNMEN

Two bandits held up C. W. Brown, a confectioner, and his wife, Mrs. Nellie Brown, of 213 Denniston avenue, as they were walking in Shakespeare street, near Landwehr street, early today.

The gunmen followed the couple while they were en route home from a confectionery Brown conducts at 115 Shady avenue. When they approached their victims one of the thugs carrying a gun shouted:

"Stick 'em up. Both of you."

Clean Farce in German Film; Hauptmann in China; Henry's Wives

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Farce comedy is one of the oldest German exports, and the German Cinema this week has a fine sample of this amusing product in "Der Kleine Seitensprung," in which Renate Mueller plays the aggrieved wife who goes out to pay her wandering husband in his own coin. The title is hard to translate, but "Slightly Indiscreet," comes near enough. The plot shows two or three husbands and wives in a merry go-round of intrigue and misunderstanding. While there is much drinking of fine drinks and making of uncommitted eyes, not one of the commandments suffers the slightest fracture and in the end everybody is happy with the right matrimonial partner. Renate Mueller again demonstrates that she is a lively blonde with all the blandishments of that species, while Herman Thimig is a divorce lawyer of most exemplary fidelity to his own spouse.

George Seibel

Fun is extracted from every possible variation of the matrimonial mixup. It is sometimes ponderous fun, but always keeps going like clockwork. And there is a rainstorm so realistic that we are surprised the mischief-making flirt caught in it doesn't have the sneezles next day. There is something the firm of Pressburger overlooked in making this film-farce. Where is Teutonic thoroughness?

CHINA AND HAUPTMANN

That Pittsburgh has a young Chinese dramatist, Samuel Kwok Ying Fung, is known to many Pittsburghers who had an opportunity of hearing his one-act play, "From the Spray of Time," over KDKA last Sunday evening. Playwright Fung, who has a fine poetic vein, takes his dramatic work with due seriousness, and writes regular dramatic correspondence for the "Drama Magazine," published in Canton, China.

While Gerhart Hauptmann is visiting America, dramatist Fung greeted him in the name of the American Chinese. He even listened for an hour and a quarter while Hauptmann was talking over the radio in German about Goethe.

In his letter to Hauptmann Fung tells some interesting facts about Hauptmann in China. Two Hauptmann comedies, "The Red Cock" and "The Beaver Coat," were produced in the Canton Conservatory last September—one in German, the other in a Chinese translation. Both received high praise. Besides these two plays at least four others have been translated into Chinese—"The Weavers," "Before Sunrise," "Lonely Lives" and "The Sunken Bell." These plays in translation are found in every Chinese dramatic library.

Dramatist Fung closed his letter to Hauptmann with an exquisite little courtesy, quoting the words of the Chinese philosopher, Mencius, who said: "Before a big carpenter the small carpenter is unable to saw the wood." That is the way I feel before you."

OTIS SKINNER'S DAUGHTER

As the theatrical season leaps the gap of Lent for its closing laps, a number of incidental attractions come for a day or two and are gone like those "ships that pass in the night." About the most interesting of them is the daughter of that fine old actor, Otis Skinner, last seen here as Shylock. His girl, Cornelia Otis Skinner, who conferred upon him the proud dignity of grandfather, is brought to the Alvin Theater by the League of Women Voters on March 15. She appears in "The Wives of Henry VIII," a series of dramatic character sketches, which ought to amuse Pittsburghers as much as they amused New Yorkers and people in other cities. Henry VIII was a great expert in sacking wives, and Miss Skinner is an admirable understudy for them.

This daughter of a famous actor will soon have a book published—a volume of humorous sketches that have appeared in various magazines. It is violating no confidence to say that she is very nearly the best humorous writer we now have in America.

Another of these one-day dramatic offerings is the childrens' play presented by the Woman's City Club on the Saturday before Easter, March 26, at 10:30 in the morning. The play is "The Secret Garden," to which a lovely little girl finds the key. These juvenile theatricals have proved so popular that there is talk of extending them into a regular professional enterprize.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Four thousand performances (we are now writing for folks who, like ourselves, are awed by figgers) in no less than 16 countries is the record of "The Blue Bird" company that will give the seventh event in the May Beegle concert series Thursday night in Syria Mosque. London, Paris and Berlin have seen this Russian vaudeville company that Master Yascha Yushny recruited some years ago from the remnants of the old Imperial Theater of Moscow. The 50 musical, dramatic, choreographic "hoofing" and comic artists will do their stuff in 17 colorful acts, skits and sketches, to the music of such tune-builders as Tschaikowsky, Rimsky-Korsakoff, Moussorgsky and Glazunov.

* * *

The next four attractions in the Alvin will be George White's "Scandals," March 28, which will be Easter week; Katharine Cornell in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," April 4; Eugenie Leontovich in "Grand Hotel," April 11, and Ethel Waters in "Rhapsody in Black," April 18. Other coming attractions in the Sixth street opry house include Ed Wynn in "The Laugh Parade" and the sixth and final play of the Professional Players, the title of which is to be announced. The "Sandals" of Mr. White is of the current season, and it is promised to have the original New York line-up complete, including the premier crooner of the air, Mr. Rudy Vallee.

* * *

Madge Evans, Arlin Judge, Bette Davis, Ann Dvorak, Karen Morley and Rochelle Hudson are among the younger generation of dames du fillims who are being loudly spoken of as future stars. George Jessell's "unit" vaudeville, which had Pittsburgh among the spots in its eye, folded after a week in Newark, but Georgie plans to try the pulmotor on it, it is said. . . . "Arsene Lupin," in which John and Lionel Barrymore play together for the first time on the screen, is having its New York premier now . . . "Park Avenue, Ltd.," which opened last week in New York, with Hugh Banks as the featured male, left the critics quite the opposite of enthusiastic. . . Geoffrey Kerr and June Walker, who joined the unemployed when "Collusion" proved to be a wreck, are at work again, this time rehearsing "We Are No Longer Children," which will have its fust puffawmance on any stage in Philly March 21.

WALTER WINCHELL -:- On Broadway

(Copyright, 1931, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W. W.: Mr. Ziegfeld phoned . . . Said his "circusy" ads brought a line to his New York box office "a block long" and that 19,700 balcony seats have been sold as a result, so there . . . He also wants you to know that never before has he had such sour luck with illness in his cast, for nearly everyone, he said, has grippe . . . I guess he must mean La Grippe, as we say on Broadway . . . And that if you start criticizing his announcements he will tell Congressman Sirovich and then how would you like that? . . . That much publicized letter to all critics from Rep. Sirovich arrived, but the papers, it appears, received it first, for it contains nothing you didn't read . . . If you accept the invite to go before his quizzers at Washington on the 14th, ask him if it is true that a New York producer's desk contains his newest play manuscript? . . . The gab is that Morris Green has it for production, which explains a great deal.

I found out how that guy in Hollywood did that . . . He sent you a letter recently containing a gag, as any contributor would do . . . So I wrote him a typical thank you letter—asking him to send more—so he is using that letter as "credentials" and is posing as your West Coast representative . . . I have advised your California papers to steer everyone concerned, right, so don't worry . . . There are a great many Frankensteins running around loose in New York, by the way . . . Nineteen of them are listed in the Manhattan phone tome alone! . . . The Epigraphs are coming in bunches . . . No. 13 is from D. O. Alber, a rhyme, to-wit: "Ashes to Ashes and Dust to Dust, Here Lies Winchell. Fate is Just." Why keep running all the roasts and never a nice one? No. 14, f'instance, from M. Bernsohn, viz.: "Here Lies W. W. Getting to the Bottom of Things again!" Or No. 15, from I. Brecher: "Here Lies W. W. An Ace in the Hole" . . . Now, isn't that nice?

Seems strange, at that . . . I mean about Gilda Gray, who won her fame being such a hot shimmy-shaker. She now is giving testimonials to refrigerators . . . Ella Hatfield forgot to add that her betrothed is W. B. Lohmann, of Woodside . . . I think Dianna Churchill is being signed by Warners for the movies. Her pappy is Winston Churchill . . . Berlin is considering a law making legalized gambling a new form of revenue. If it goes through, four Summer resorts in Germany will be "Monte Carlos," and a New Yorker, ironically enough named Fortune, is one of the backers . . . I've sent those S. Pepys and O. Henry books over to the apartment. You're not going to take up reading at this late date? . . . Oscar Greave, the magazine editor, says that the piece on the Long Island set is by Will Irwin's brother Wallace.

Gus Edwards feels wretched, he says . . . Because the "Marching By" show doesn't credit him with composing the ditty in it by that title . . . He says, good or bad, he wants it known that he authored the song to prove that he is still trying . . . So I wish you would state . . . I wonder how many Broadwayokels know that Jefferson de Angelis, the veteran musical comedy actor, is gravely ill in his tiny flat over in Long Island City? . . . The tragic part is that in his book, "The Vagabond Trouper," he wrote: "And after this there is nothing more to tell, for from then on—I never knew poverty" . . . And now Jeff is pretty badly in need . . . By the way, Joe Frisco is back at Loew's State after a long lay-off . . . Next week he plays in Brooklyn and then he goes back to his hotel room for heaven knows how long.

H. Seton called. Says very few people can stand the prosperity—of others . . . Irving Berlin phoned. No message . . . Call Wm. A. Brady—any time . . . The ex-Mrs. Alexander Carr will re-marry her first husband, Frank Meehan, I hear . . . J. J. Williams phoned . . . The new husband of Harriet ("Hot-Cha") Fink is critically ill in a hospital with influenza and septic poisoning . . . Will you leave me $2.07 for incidentals? . . . You won't? . . . Did you check up on that "Vanities" girl eloping with B. T.?... Gen. Atterbury of the Pennsy will pay heavy dough to anyone who can tell him how to bring customers back to the railroads . . . I wish I were clever that way . . . Jeanne Gilliam wishes you would repeat these lines from Ella Wheeler Wilcox's pen, to cheer others: "And though fame pass you, and you never know it, and though you never sing another strain, you have performed the mission of the poet—in helping this sad heart to bear its pain."

Arnold Faulkner, of Baltimore, observes that the Chinese are not yellow, after all . . . Some war vets were in. Want to know if the bonus is coming up this season. Told them you'd try and find out . . . Your line recently about Shamokin, Pa., having more pretty girls than any town its size started Reading (Pa.) readers writing to the editor . . . Were you ever in Shamokin? . . . I thought not . . . Ain't you the one, though? . . . Anything to start an argument! . . . That chap wanted you to autograph his drawing so he could make copies and sell them, I guess . . . He got Mayor Walker to do it . . . 'S'gag—so I said Nope . . . Unless, of course, he donates all the proceeds to the Patrolmen's Benevolent Ass'n . . . John M. Henry, of Council Bluffs, Pa., wants you to know that if you don't think the world is flat—then come around the first of the month. . . Do you know that things are so bad in literary circles, I know a ghost writer who can make personal appearance—and look the part!

If you think no other writer has his troubles, have a look at the front page of The Beacon News of February 29, which says: "Through an error it was stated that guests at the birthday party tendered Mrs. Earl Cherry last week enjoyed dancing and cards. The program included neither of these pastimes, but was made up of many musical numbers". . . Of all retractions!. . Everybody thought those were jokes—I mean about the Red Ink business prospering more than any other business. . Well, the Dow Jones ticker reported that the General Printing Ink Company declared a quarterly dividend of 25c on common stock payable in April! . . I looked that up in World's Work for February. . The quote on page 55 continued as follows: "November 30, 1931, Winchell wrote: 'A new brother or sister has been ordered for "The Most Famous Baby in the World"'". . I had completely forgotten it.

—Your Girl Friday.

Will Rogers goes globe-trotting and gets captured by the Arabs in "Business and Pleasure," coming Thursday to the Fulton. "Aw, I'm a sheik at home, too," he boasts to them.

School-Teacher Wins Critic Contest

Mary Crawford, teacher in the Coraopolis High School, has been awarded first prize in the amateur critics' contest held by the Stanley and Warner theaters in February. Beatrice Lewis, 5636 Beacon street, graduate of the Pennsylvania College for Women, won second prize. Miss Crawford will enjoy a 40-day Mediterranean cruise and Miss Lewis will take a boat trip to California, via the Panama Canal. The result of the contest was announced last night by Dick Powell, representing Warner Brothers, from the Stanley stage. Hundreds of reviews were received. The judges were photoplay editors of Pittsburgh newspapers.

Pat O'Mally Writes Book While Awaiting Call To the Screen

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, by King Features Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, March 8.

Today I was talking to Pat O'Mally. Poor Pat is a living example of one of Hollywood's most unexplainable traits. That of dropping a good actor cold, and for no earthly reason.

Only a short while ago, Pat's salary was $2,500 a week. Now he works by the day for what he can get, mostly around $20 to $50. And even at these prices he's had only six days work this year. Last year, in all, he got about six week's salary.

Pat O'Malley

Naturally, he isn't happy over the situation, but he discussed it with me very philosophically.

"I know I'll come back," he told me. "I'm just as good an actor today as I ever was. Even a better one, for I've had a lot of hard knocks and they've taught me things.

"This isn't my first slump, you know. When the war broke out I was in Ireland making pictures for Sydney Olcott. We got back broke and, from a leading man I got down to $5 a day and was glad to get it.

"Then I had a run of luck and was sitting on top of the world. That is, until about 1918, when I hit the toboggan again. I remember Dick Barthelmess and I worked as extras together during this time. Once he told me, 'Well, you've had your day, why not give someone else a chance?'

"But I came back again, stronger than ever. This time I would have been independent for life if the stock market hadn't taken me.

ROGERS AGAIN

Over at Fox, they were talking about a certain film writer's automobile smash-up.

"When you get to skidding on a curve," someone remarked, "what's to stop you?"

"Well," suggested Will Rogers, "A telephone pole has been known to."

ANITA'S NEW JOB

Anita Louise, shy, still almost a child, will go to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to play an ingenue role in Greta Garbo's new picture, "As You Desire Me." It was on this lot that Anita played her first roles with her hair done up. That was before she went to Universal to appear opposite Lew Ayers in "Heaven on Earth." She's under contract to R. K. O.

Public Vote to Decide Film Preferences

HOLLYWOOD, March 8.—(INS.)—Will Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, has announced plans for a nationwide poll to determine film preferences of audiences in the United States.

Each town and city in the United States will vote, ballots to be sent all dyed-in-the-wool motion picture fans in addition to editors, educators, club leaders, clergymen and business leaders.

KLEENEX

Disposable Tissues

YOUR handkerchief is a source of danger during colds, grippe, or flu! After you have used it once, it is fit only to be destroyed. Impossible to destroy each handkerchief, you say? It is possible with Kleenex, the new handkerchief tissue you use once and destroy.

Kleenex costs so little. That's why you can destroy it after a single use.

Soft, soothing

Kleenex is superior to handkerchiefs of cotton or linen in every way. It never irritates tender noses during colds. It's made of rayon-cellulose, a substance firm and cloth-like, yet soft, downy and gentle.

You end all handkerchief washing when you use Kleenex.

And now you pay a third less for Kleenex! The generous box—formerly 50c—is now but 35c! The package remains unchanged. You get the same number of tissues. The same soft quality. Only the price has changed!

At this new, low price you'll find more uses than ever for Kleenex. Use to remove creams—to apply make-up—to polish spectacles, silver, shoes!

KLEENEX disposable TISSUES

You Can't Hide Behind A Mask of Cosmetics

Don't try to hide a bad complexion. Clear it! If your skin is red, rough or pimply, there is only one way to overcome the annoyance—get rid of the defects. You can do this easily by using Resinol Ointment. Apply lightly. Leave on skin about an hour (longer, if possible), wash off with Resinol Soap.

For trial samples of both, with booklet on Skin Treatment, write Resinol, Dept. 29, Baltimore, Md.

PITT'S FOES FROM DIFFERENT ANGLE

IT WOULD APPEAR to the average basketball follower that in the selection of an all-opponents team the forwards should be the ones to judge the opposing guards, and that by the same rule the guards are best qualified to pass on the merits of the enemy forwards. If the votes cast by the University of Pittsburgh players were counted under that system, it would change the complexion of the all-opponents' quintet selected by the Panthers. The team announced as the choice of the Pitt squad as a whole could not be termed actually the best.

Jim MacDougall

The all-opponent first-team forwards chosen by Dr. Carlson's squad were Big Jim MacDougall, of the Dukes, and Nemer, of the University of Southern California. If the votes of only the Pitt guards had been counted in this department, Nemer would have been replaced by O'Leary, of Kansas, a second-team choice in the total balloting. And the same is true of the all-opponent guards, though in a lesser degree.

JOHNNY WOODEN, of Purdue, was a unanimous selection, but Marty Reiter, of Duquesne, would have got only a tie with three other guards if the ballots of only the Panther forwards had been considered. Tanseer, of Penn, Crowe, of Notre Dame, and Phillips, of Syracuse, each received as many votes from the Pitt forwards as did Reiter.

At that, the Pitt all-opponents' team, made up as it is of MacDougall, Nemer, Krause, Wooden and Reiter, comes pretty close to being an all-America outfit. Only about three outstanding college stars of the season are left off, these being Romney, of Brigham Young; Collings, of Missouri, and Brownlee, of Westminster. Take these three, add them to the five chosen by the Panthers, shake them up, and any five that happened to be picked up first out of the eight would make a pretty fair sort of ball team.

THE PIRATES LIKE California so well as a training camp site that the present trip is the ninth straight for them to the coast. The Cubs' visit to Catalina Island is an annual fixture, and Detroit's two successive jaunts indicate that the Tigers also have contracted the California habit.

And now the Giants are to be added to the list of regular spring visitors on the coast. In his club's first training trip to Los Angeles since 1907, John McGraw is sold on the place to such an extent that he admits he plans to take the squad there again next spring and has almost completed negotiations for a return training engagement.

THIS YEAR MAY find both of the Garbark brothers, crack athletes of Edgewood, who won fame at Allegheny College, playing in organized baseball. Bob, a catcher, former football captain at Allegheny, is already playing professionally and has reported to the Wichita club, of the Western League, with the batterymen for spring training. It is said the Cleveland American League club has been advised by one of its agents to try Art, a star in three sports at Allegheny, and will offer him a contract after his graduation is June. Art is a third baseman. He was fullback and co-captain of the football team last fall and is now playing guard on the basketball five.

JOE DAWSON this week will put his airplane back in the hanger and report to the Kansas City club for what he is confident will prove a successful baseball comeback. He goes out under a Pirate option and has every hope of doing well enough to earn a recall to the Buccaneer ranks in the fall.

Joe Dawson

Dawson hasn't pitched a ball in the organized ranks since May 31, 1929, but he is in fine shape physically and expects speedily to regain all his old pitching skill. One item in Joe's favor is that the American Association has disregarded the lively ball for 1932. The veteran right-hander figures the new ball will be quite a help to him in his efforts to get going again after his long lay-off.

A SECOND NUMBER of shifts for a three-time pennant winner might be looked for in the lineup of the A's this year if Connie Mack could be expected to stick to his early arrangement. He showed changes at all four infield positions Sunday in the second game with the Cardinals.

Jimmy Dykes was moved from third base to second, Jimmy Foxx from first to third, Oscar Roettger, from St. Paul, was at first base, and Ed Cihocki, from Harrisburg, at shortstop. In the third game of the series yesterday Max Bishop was back at second base, but the other players remained at their stations.

AND STILL ANOTHER change is in evidence in right field, where Ed Coleman, Portland recruit, is taking the place of the veteran Bing Miller. If that lineup were allowed to stand you'd hardly be able to recognize the White Elephants on opening day as the club that won three straight pennants and two world championships. However, it cannot be said yet that the arrangement is a permanent one. Mack is merely doing some experimenting. He knows what all the vets can do in their old positions and wants to get a line on the possibilities of the newcomers.

IT IS NOT because it removes one of Gene Venske's most dangerous possible rivals from the 1,500-meter race in the Olympic Games that the professionalization of Jules Ladoumegue, of the French Athletic Federation, is causing the amateur track powers in the United States to heave huge sighs of relief.

For it lightens a load to find one instance in which the suspected athlete did not become involved in high finance in this country. It was in America that Paavo Nurmi, Charley Hoff and Dr. Peltzer all got into jams though Nurmi since has been investigated again in Europe. Uncle Sam's amateur authorities are not sorry to be relieved of any connection with the latest mess.

EXPLAINING THE REFUSAL of Howard Jones to consider the football coaching job at Iowa, coast friends of the Trojan mentor say he makes more money on the side out there than University of Southern California pays him for being coach. He would have to sacrifice that side money to leave the Golden State.

Iowa could meet the U. S. C. coaching figure, but couldn't match the $12,000 extra that Jones makes in Los Angeles. And last year the extra is said to have run much higher from movie shorts—almost twice as much. And that's not mentioning a new car for having built a championship team.

Jess Quatse

ONE FOOTBALL STAR for whom the professional game holds no appeal at the close of his college playing career is Jess Quatse, Pitt's all-America tackle. Though he has another year in school, dentistry being a five-year course, and will not be graduated until 1933, Quatse is no longer eligible for intercollegiate gridiron competition, but in spite of that he has no thought of turning pro next season or later, he says. It is not on account of any lack of opportunity, as Jess has received several offers to enter the paid playing division. But the Greensburg man has turned them all down, and intends to stay out of the pro game. He would like to go in for coaching, however, and probably will be found working in that capacity if the right sort of chance presents itself.

PANTHERS MEET W. VA. TEAMS IN TRIPLE BILL

GAMES TONIGHT

Pitt at West Virginia U.
Pitt Frosh at West Virginia Frosh.
Carnegie Tech at Geneva.
Carnegie Pitches at Geneva Reserves.
Alumni at Duquesne.
Grove City at Westminster.
Bethany at Salem.

By JESS CARVER

The home town boys are visiting out-of-town spots tonight as they feature the evening's intercollegiate action. It remains to be seen whether or not they can develop into home-town-boys-who-made-good-abroad. The outlook is none too encouraging.

Pitt has a triple-header on tap with West Virginia. The Panther and Mountaineer varsity and freshmen basketball teams clash first and following these contests, the boxers of the rival institutions battle, and what a battle! All three engagements are booked for the fine Mountaineer Field House in Morgantown, where a capacity crowd is certain to be on hand.

TECH, GENEVA CLASH

While the Pitts are visiting with the West Virginians, Carnegie Tech's basketballers have a tough one on their hands in Geneva's Covenanters at Beaver Falls. Tech is up against a stiff one, for the Covenanters are winding up their season with tonight's game, and if they win, they'll have a record of 14 games won and five lost, beside two wins over Tech, one over Duquesne and one over Grove City.

Last week, on successive nights, they landed extra-period wins, beating the Dukes first and Thiel second. Right now Geneva is hot, which makes the task of the Tartans tonight plenty difficult.

Pitt is up against it, too. West Virginia sent its basketballers and boxers here to keep an engagement when the season was yet a pup, and the Mountaineers took three lickings, even the boxers being beaten. Nothing would please the boys in Morgantown more than to return the favor tonight, and you can bet the supper money they'll put forth every effort to accomplish the feat. The probable Tech-Geneva lineup:

| Carnegie | | Geneva |
|---|---|---|
| Smith | F | Ginsberg |
| Silverman | F | Manning |
| Fiorio | C | (C) Montgomery |
| Fritsch | G | Altman |
| Lenhart (C) | G | Graham |

Referee—Minster. Umpire—Kennedy.

BRONSON TO REFEREE

The boxing bouts tonight will be refereed by the celebrated Jimmy Bronson, famous New York boxing manager and Gene Tunney's chief second in both his scraps against Jack Dempsey. Tunney has been invited to attend tonight's show in Morgantown, but the chances are about 675 to one-half that he won't be there. Maybe they'll read a telegram of regret.

Substitutes will represent Pitt in two classes, Shotwell, 175-pounder, and Namlik, 125-pounder, are ill, and Johnny Luch and Jerry Glick will do the pinch-hitting.

Up at New Wilmington, Westminster's towering Titans wind up their very successful season against Grove City, the only tri-state district team that licked 'em this year. A win for the Titans (and they figure to win by 10 or 15 points) will give them the district and Tri-State Conference title. If they lose, they'll still have the conference crowd, but they'll have to sort of share district honors with the Dukes.

In other games, Bethany and Salem meet at Salem; Davis-Elkins plays Shepherd College at Elkins and the Duquesne varsity tangles with the alumni on the Bluff court.

| Varsity | | Alumni |
|---|---|---|
| Friedman | F | Bonnell |
| Krajewski | F | Lasko |
| Marshall | C | Hoffman |
| Reiter | G | Yates |

HANDBALL ACES MEET

PIN MEET TOMORROW

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE MOST SENSITIVE INSTRUMENT—The Magnetic Strain Gauge is so sensitive to imperceptible movement that it will measure the length to which a man will stretch a one-inch iron bar barehanded. It also will gauge the stress of a locomotive thundering over the rail so precisely that the weight of the engine has been calculated from its readings more accurately than the railroad records indicated. The readings are arrived at with the aid of an oscillograph upon the principle of electric current.

MACKMEN TAKE SERIES LEAD

FT. MYERS, Fla., March 8.—(AP.)—The Athletics yesterday tossed into action Mickey Cochrane, and forthwith took the St. Louis Cardinals into camp, 4 to 2, in the third, and by far the best-played game of the spring exhibition "world series."

The victory gave the American League champions a two-to-one edge over the National League and world titleholders. The final game is scheduled in the Cardinals' camp at Bradenton, March 16.

Errorless engagement was in sharp contrast to the free-scoring melee in Miami. The Athletics clinched the game in the first inning with a three-run attack on Southpaw Bud Teachout. The Cardinals scored two runs off Joe Bowman in the ninth.

In between they were held hitless for three frames by Lew Krausse, the 19-year-old right-hander, who apears by far to be the best of Connie Mack's young pitching prospects.

In the final inning, singles by Collins and Ford, a double by Delker and a long fly by Parham, pinch hitting for Gonzales, accounted for the two Cardinal markers.

Quit to Willard When Paid Off—Johnson

By FRANK G. MENKE

The story of why Jack Johnson, who had agreed to lay down to Jess Willard in Havana in 1915, did not swoon until the twenty-sixth round.

In the tale of his fistic career, now being published, the retired champion makes a general defense of the honesty and the gorgeous purity of the fight racket by bouncing verbal broadsides off the chins and torsos of those who harbor the notion that there is plenty of sordidness entwined with the art of heaving leather.

To bolster up his position, Tunney "pooh poohs" Johnson's own confession that he did not try to win from Willard. Tunney takes the attitude that a man who was faking wouldn't linger around for 26 rounds before making contact with the canvas.

Johnson lingered so long simply because he was not paid off in full until the twenty-fourth round.

SET TO GO LIMIT

The Negro was guaranteed a certain sum of money. All of it had not been paid when time came for him to go into the ring. But the promise was made that the balance would be given to his representative long before the tenth round—which happened to be the one originally fixed upon for Johnson's dive.

Johnson then sent for a man connected with the promoting of the fight. This man climbed up into Johnson's corner between rounds and the boys had words—quite a few of them. The man then went hustling away. And the fight went on. Johnson, the boxing master, made Willard look like a fearful novice. Johnson won every round up to the twenty-third. The bout was slated to go 45.

Telling about the affair later, Johnson said:

"It wasn't until the end of the twenty-third that I got word that all the money had been paid to me. I had told them that I would not do any boxing until they paid up off. I wouldn't have either. I'd have been right there for the forty-fifth if they hadn't paid. But they paid, so I got ready to do my stuff.

"I waved to my wife to tell her to phrase get away from the ringside. But she sat there through the twenty-fourth. When I was in my corner after the twenty-fourth I waved to her again. But the twenty-fifth began before she started to leave. She had to pass around the ring to get to the exit. That took some time and the twenty-fifth was over before she was clear out of sight.

"When the twenty-sixth began, I put on my chair, also like. Then I moved in close to Willard. He took good aim for my chair—and put me on the chair. I went down and Willard was champion.

"Yes, sir, I made sure I got all my money before I threw that title. But I made one mistake. I should have made sure that the moving pictures they promised to give me so that I could show them in Europe and make some money on them, there were real pictures of the fight. They gave me a can of film, like they said they would. But they must have made a little mistake—or something. Anyway, when I landed those pictures out to show them to exhibitors in Europe, all I had was a lot of black film.

The hard luck team of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League, Braddock High School, champion of Section VIII, begins its tenth drive for the league's basketball crown in the Pitt Stadium pavilion tonight when Uniontown, champion of Section X, is met in a second-round fray.

Flashing one of the most impressive records compiled by a high school in the W. P. I. A. L. competition, Braddock has yet to win its first league championship, but, judging from the showing of the team during the regular season, Ham Hudson's quintet has an excellent chance of coming through the current eliminations.

CHAMP 10 TIMES

Braddock, a member of the W. P. I. A. L. for 14 years, has won the sectional title 10 times, quite a remarkable record when it is taken into consideration the caliber of teams it was forced to eliminate to qualify for the post-season series.

Although Braddock competed in a section this year composed only four teams, this division was one of the best balanced circuits in the W. P. I. A. L. Ali Hudson's team had to beat this season were Scott High, last year's state champion; Rankin and Turtle Creek. Braddock split even in two games with Scott High, and its only other defeat came at the hands of Homestead, champion of Section VII, and a favorite to win the current tournament.

Braddock has been fortunate in reaching the final round of the tournament twice and in each instance was defeated. In 1916 Braddock bowed to South High and in 1917, Schenley was its conqueror.

Besides winning five out of six league encounters, Braddock won 13 out of 14 non-league battles.

FORMER STATE CHAMP

Uniontown, coached by A. J. Everhart, is a former league and state champion. The Everhart charges won the W. P. I. A. L. title for two straight years in 1925 and 1926. The Fayette countians also captured the state toga in 1925.

Uniontown had to show a lot of class to win the Section X crown during the past season, the race not being decided until the final contest. Latrobe was the only team to defeat Uniontown in a league battle.

PIRATES TO PLAY AGAIN TODAY

EXHIBITIONS UNDER WAY SUNDAY

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 8.—The Pirate Regulars and Yanigans will resume hostilities this afternoon, after having been given an off day, as far as a ball game was concerned yesterday.

Gibson did not allow his squad to rest however, and shortly after he announced that the fourth Regular-Yanigan game would not be played, he hustled the players out to the field for their morning workout and held another session in the afternoon.

YOUNG INJURED

An injury to Young, who is playing third base for the Regulars, caused the Pirate skipper to forego the pleasure of witnessing his squads in action. With Pie Traynor not quite in shape for a regulation contest, Gibson did not want to use an inexperienced player on the Yanigan infield and called the contest.

The young pitchers already are showing the results obtained in the workouts held to date during these inter-club contests. The work of Bevins and Niggeling was especially pleasing to the Pirate skipper, the two youngsters hurling six innings each, in which the opposition garnered only seven hits apiece off their deliveries.

The veterans are taking things easy as yet, and to date have only been bearing down where it is necessary. Kremer, French and Spencer have been the only veteran hurlers on the mound in the games yet and they displayed excellent form.

PIET DRILLS AT THIRD

Manager Gibson is looking forward to the exhibition tour which opens Sunday with a doubleheader in Oakland. He plans to hold practice session in the morning and games in the afternoon for the remainder of the stay here.

Gibson's move in teaching Tony Piet to play third base has the critics guessing. Just what he intends to do remains in doubt, for Gibby remains non-committal on the subject. He is, however, taking particular pains with Piet in teaching him the proper way to handle himself at the hot corner. It may be that Gibson is anxious to have two men on his club who are capable of handling the third base job, and in case of an injury to Traynor, he will have Piet ready.

MEINE STILL OUTSIDE

Heine Meine, the Pirates' only unsigned player, continues to be a holdout with the opening of the season only five weeks distant. The Buc hurler is at his home in St. Louis, and, with the local management, is said to have delivered his ultimatum.

Emile (Spider) Pladner will do. The fair-skinned and personable little bantamweight champion of France sold himself with his classy exhibition in winning over Jimmy Thomas, local Negro star, in the 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden last night. He carried off eight of the 10 rounds in a scrap that was comparatively slow for little fellows, but interesting all of the way.

The deliberate movements of both men slowed down the pace, but the bout was marked with a lot of clever stuff. Thomas hurt his own chances of winning by doing too much clinching, with Pladner punching away at close quarters. The Spider was the aggressor in almost every round, scored at will with a long, snaky left and banged to the body and head with his right. Meanwhile he very successfully avoided Thomas' dangerous right by stepping inside it or taking a half step backward and shooting out his left to let Thomas wind up on the end of it. Thomas scored successfully with the right only once, in the seventh round, when he shot in a left and followed with a right that sent Pladner back off balance, but the Spider was only momentarily distressed.

DECISION IS SPLIT

Pladner's seconds wore the tricolor of France on their jackets in the corner. They protested against a slippery substance on Thomas' body before the fight got under way and later caused Referee Al Grayber to stop the bout after the start of a round to have an excessive amount of water rubbed off Jimmy. The Spider weighed 117½ pounds, and Thomas had to work off a half pound after weighing in to get down to 120.

Although the Spider won handily, the decision was not unanimous. Both judges voted for him, but the referee scored the bout for Thomas. His vote did not count under the rules.

Battling Gizzy, Thomas' stablemate, 135½, ran afoul of a sturdy opponent in Eddie Lord, of Hartford, Conn, 135, and took a lot of body beating as he swarmed about to win the decision on his forcing and constant punching. Lord stood up as well as anyone Gizzy has fought recently and looked to have a chance in the early rounds until the pace began to wear him down.

SALERNO BEATS KELLEY

K. O. Kelley, Akron Negro veteran, 153, clowned his way through eight rounds with Guy Salerno, of Los Angeles, 159½, but took a bad beating all of the way.

The first bout was stopped in the second round to save Kenny Davis, of East Liverpool, O., 135, from further damage after his opponent, Patsy Hennigan, 135½, opened a bad cut on his forehead, causing a gush of blood.

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Five weeks from today our Pirates are slated to jump off in St. Louis, but it is no comfort to Manager Gibson to realize that the logical Pittsburgh sharpshooter for that big occasion is on the scene now. Heinie Meine was the only pitcher in captivity to record two shutout victories over the Cardinals champions last season; while other Buccos whip themselves into condition, Heinie rests at his home on the banks of Ol' Man River, near St. Louis.

A lot of banks can re-open between now and April 12, yet Gibby would like to have his big ace in the fold. It is assured now that the holdout pitcher will not take part in any of the shindigs at Paso Robles, for the Buccos will pull up stakes at the Almond City Saturday. They will begin their long barnstorming tour in Oakland Sunday.

It will be unfortunate for the big Canuck if he has to open the season with Meine out of whack. Perhaps it smacks of unnecessary bridge-crossing to write of such an eventuality as March snows lie on the ground, but every manager knows a good start is something to be desired. The Buccos' chances of a nice beginning will be jeopardized if they have to tackle the world champions four days in a row with the home team's nemesis unfit for duty.

The St. Louis flock suffers a chill whenever Meine appears on the practice rubber. The Prince of Luxemberg has the number of his classy neighbors as his remarkable shutout successes attest.

When Heine has his speed and control, he throws the Cards a lot of stuff they do not wish to see. He makes the champs hit the ball he wishes them to hit, not vice versa. And Meinie is a smart dude on the rubber.

Naturally Heinie would be the logical choice to open the season, and he still has enough time to get into first-class condition, but he cannot delay his start more than another week if he wishes to be ready when the hot dogs begin to bark in the ball orchards.

Nary a word has been heard of Heinie in the past two weeks, according to a statement voiced today by William E. Benswanger, president of the Pirates. Apparently the last overture was made from the home office and it is just as apparent that the proffer fell upon poor ground.

Heinie failed in his ambitious attempt to cop 20 games in his biggest season. He was trying for the envied twentieth on the last day of the season, the locale being Wrigley Field, Chicago. The Cubs, however, had no sentiments in their makeups. But that condition is one of the glories of the sport. Heinie was trimmed.

Boss Gibson doubtless will have five or six pitchers in shape for the slab slip when the race begins. Reports from Paso Robles have been very favorable. The weather, as usual, has been excellent, there being no occasion to call off a scheduled drill. Hence the intensive training plans of Gibby are being carried out. George is of the school which contends that athletes are all the better for having extended themselves in training.

Forbes

Dawes Ripped Lid Off; Glass Changed Bill

By B. C. FORBES

"STOCKHOLDERS DON'T exercise control of corporations," said a great industrialist to me yesterday. "This is a matter you should think about. Most large companies are managed and controlled by the head executives."

Mr. Forbes

I replied:

"My observation is that certain of our very largest corporations are under the domination, not of the managers, but of banking interests. They, rather than the working executives, dictate destinies—decide, for example, upon unusual expansion, upon mergers, upon drastic retrenchment, and so forth. As between the two, isn't executive domination preferable to banking domination?"

"Yes; but the present arrangement isn't satisfactory from the long-range viewpoint. It would be better all round if stockholders took keener interest and exercised more influence. It would not only be better for managements to have their stockholders constantly vigilant, but it would have a beneficial influence upon proposed legislation affecting industries and business. You should urge this in your column."

Urged it is.

SEVERAL READERS want to know why this column first printed severe criticism of the Glass bank bill and then turned round (as they say) and indorsed it.

What was here condemned was the original Glass bill, a monstrous conglomeration of good and bad changes in our banking laws. What was indorsed here was the Glass-Steagall bill, a wholly different piece of legislation, which has since become law.

The story of how Senator Glass was induced to alter his attitude overnight is piquantly interesting. The Glass bill, drafted mostly by an outsider notoriously "anti" everything, was actually precipitating panic throughout the banking world.

It threatened, in the opinion of bankers, such widespread disaster that they concluded it would be useless for them to continue to bolster up certain threatening "situations"—one had already imposed very heavy burdens upon aiding bankers and needed many more millions.

The whole, ugly facts (the story goes) were laid before Gen. Dawes, slated to head the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. When he appeared before the Glass committee, he requested that the reporters be excluded. Then he opened up with terrific vehemence.

He drew for the committeemen a picture calculated to make their hair stand on end. Without mincing words, he thundered that Senator Glass and his colleagues must be prepared to shoulder blame for whatever havoc their action might cause—and he predicted that the havoc would not be mild.

Without shilly-shallying, the Glass-Steagall measure was substituted for the original punitive, deflationary Glass bill, speedy action was secured, the bill was passed—and banking and financial sentiment at once notably improved.

"Dear Mr. Whitney:

"Customers of members of your stock exchange want to know what you propose to do should they refuse to grant their broker written permission to lend their stocks to short-sellers, and receive notice to close out their accounts.

"Will you please tell?"

An answer will be deeply appreciated by many who are now worrying—perhaps unnecessarily.

UNTIL LATELY, most people were apprehensive over what might happen. Now they are hopeful. Whereas they feared bad news, they now expect good news.

OIL MEN SEE IMPROVEMENT

BRADFORD, Pa., March 8.—(AP.)—Scanning completed reports that show consumption increased 20 per cent in 1931, Pennsylvania crude oil men predict "better business" for 1932.

The total stocks of Pennsylvania grade crude on hand were reduced 1,284,000 barrels at the close of 1931. Total stocks of Pennsylvania grade crude on hand, including stocks at refineries, in pipe lines and on tank farms, were 6,617,000 barrels as compared to 7,901,000 barrels at the end of 1930. ## STAR GOLFERS MEET DEFEAT

MIAMI, Fla., March 8.—(AP.)—Favorites broke even in quarter final matches of Miami's $5,000 international four-ball golf matches yesterday, with Willie MacFarlane and Wiffy Cox, defending champions, and Walter Hagen and Paul Runyon going the way of teams that can't time their shots.

MacFarlane and Cox went down, 3 and 2, before Harry Hampton, Chicago, and Neil McIntyre, Indianapolis.

Hagen and Runyon were beaten, 4 and 2, by Billy Burke, National open champion, and Johnny Golden, Norton, Conn.

KEN HIGH TOPS SEWICKLEY

They took the lids off the hoops in the Pitt Stadium pavilion last night as New Kensington High School, champion of Section I, qualified to meet East Pike Run, champion of Section XVI, in the quarter finals of the W. P. I. A. L. basketball eliminations by defeating a much under-rated Sewickley Township quintet, standard-bearer of Section XII. The score was 32-29.

One of the smallest crowds to attend a tournament game in the Pitt Stadium pavilion this year was treated to a free-scoring contest that kept the winner in doubt from start to finish.

Sewickley Township, including in its lineup Donald Goodlin at forward, Joe Zenker at center and Ernest Hefferle at guard, was far more impressive in defeat than most of the teams that have scored victories in the early rounds of the W. P. I. A. L. eliminations.

The three boys mentioned above earned for themselves the right to be ranked with the greatest individual stars which have appeared in the tournament to date.

Louis Marino, brilliant forward of the New Kensington quintet, was the outstanding star of the contest as a result of ringing up 10 baskets and one foul for a total of 21 points. Marino cut for the basket consistently and was fed frequently by his teammates. This boy is going to bear watching in future games, because he is a dead shot from all angles of the floor. He registered eight double-deckers in the first half.

Goodlin was not far behind Marino in effectiveness when shooting for the basket. This youngster came through with six field goals and three fouls for a total of 15 points. The lineup:

SANDLOT LOOP TO MEET

By TOM BIRKS

With the West Penn League holding a meeting tonight, and the City loop scheduled to hold its next session Thursday, fans are watching with interest the moves being made by circuit sponsors as they endeavor to whip the leagues into shape.

As the scenes rapidly move, it becomes evident new blood will have to be nursed and injected into the best circuits if they are to operate this season.

When teams like Cup Jenkins, Whittaker, Universal, North Bessemer, Wally Smith, Fintex, and possibly Verona Community, pass out of the picture in one season, organization is tough business.

SPONSORS BACK DOWN

The situation at Verona is the same as many other suburban sections. The possibility of financial returns meeting the expenditure of running a club is questionable, and former team sponsors are not as eager.

The Greater Pittsburgh League has been hit harder than any loop. Only four clubs are expected to form its nucleus of this season. It is stated that Edgewood, Iroquois, Wilkinsburg Murs and Immaculate Heart will go. Where is it possible to get four clubs to equal this quartet in the district? The loop formerly operated with 10 teams.

Officials of the City League have been working since their initial meeting to get prospective teams in line. For a long time it was stated Green Cab would be back in the fold, but Paul Houston, executive, is not anxious, what with ball players still talking of big salaries. If money reaches normal, there is a chance that Green Cab yet this season will be back on the diamond.

CIVICS MAY RETURN

Dormont, Homewood, J. J. Thomas and Book Shoe are all set to go. There was a move made to induce some of these teams to join other loops, but did not succeed. Managers are hoping Art Rooney gets back in time for the next meeting. He is well liked, and, without a doubt is one of the most popular fellows in the game. If he decided to put the Civics into the championship class, he could do it.

There is decided opinion regarding the Civics going along as they did last season. The Civics have one of the most colorful clubs ever to operate in the district, and it is hoped they will be back in a big and better way.

Johnny Dunsky attended the last meeting of the league, and, to a certain extent, protected his franchise, but Johnny has received nothing definite regarding the sponsorship of his club.

FOUR SQUASH TILTS TODAY

Four second round matches in the Class A city squash racquets championship are to be played today at the Keystone Athletic Club. Yesterday's two contests were defaulted, O. W. Kepler, P. A. A., Class B finalist, forfeiting to C. A. Fagan, University Club, and Country Club, doing the same with O. C. Kennedy, K. A. C., Class B champion. W. B. Bickel won the K. A. C. title by beating Fagan.

F. S. McClintock, University Club, meets W. B. Bickel, K. A. C., at 5:15; Fagan opposes Dave Gilmore, Allegheny Country Club, 4:30; J. D. McCutcheon, K. A. C., plays Kennedy, 5:15, and O. Stegeman, P. A. A., battles McCook Reed, Pittsburgh Golf Club, 4:30 today.

The survivors will meet tomorrow in the semi-final round, with the final listed for Saturday afternoon.

Sport Tales

Jock Sutherland, Pitt football coach, says he'll let Ernie be his chauffeur and drive him around in the machine, if Ernie will blow himself to a chauffeur's uniform.

PANTHERS CARD SCHOOL MEET

The eighteenth annual interscholastic swimming meet sponsored by the University of Pittsburgh will be held in the Trees Gym pool, Friday and Saturday, April 1 and 2. In conjunction with the high school events the University championships will be held.

The high school trials and some of the university finals will be held on Friday night, and on Saturday afternoon the remainder of the finals in both classes will take place.

Between Rounds

Many local fans are going to Youngstown to see Jack Dempsey's exhibition against George Patsas, of Homestead, next Monday night. Patsas, Barney Ross and Frankie Genaro box the windup at the Garden that night. Angelo Vergona, of Swissvale, will box Lou Brown, in an eight-round bout on the Youngstown card.

Buck McTiernan, Swissvale middleweight, is working out daily in the Garden gym and is in good condition, but is being forced to remain idle because of a disagreement with his manager, Sunny Eberlach, who refuses to give up their contract, which does not expire until the twenty-ninth of next month.

Luke Carney, blacksmith of Hays Roberts, has taken him off the card at the Kaufman Arena Friday night, when he was to meet Max Eiling.

Johnny Hazel, former Pittsburgh Lyceum amateur boxer, turns pro under the management of Caddy DeMarco, against Georgie Schier, of the North Side, in the opener at the Kaufman Arena Friday night. Schier has boxed only once as a pro, against Sharkey Leeka in McKeesport.

Charley Baxter bokes Benny McArthur in the main bout and Davy Grove meets Paul Ouer in the semi-final of the Kaufman card, which will be staged at the new prices of 50 cents and $1.

Babe Joe Gans boxes Al Trainor in an eight-round bout in Philadelphia, Thursday night, with Joe Smallwood and Kilroy Bosnak in the semi-final. Bobby Burns, of Baltimore, bokes Al Rowe and Gene Buffalo meets Billy Ketchel in the Quaker City, Friday night.

Hank Hankerson and Tiny Powell will oppose Jack Dempsey for two rounds each in the former champion's exhibition appearance at Akron, O., Thursday night. Sammy O'Dell meets Tex Vahle, Babe Titmarsh battles Joey Ross and Frank Johnson boxes Jackie Coogan for six rounds each, in three four-round preliminaries. Jack Truscott bokes Eddie Rotardi, Lynn Jordan tangles with Red Lloyd and Young Terry is carded with Billy White.

Jack Wilson is back in town. The middleweight, of Jersey City, who campaigned around here a few seasons ago, returned yesterday from New York and is ready to do battle under the management of Trish Kane, with any of our 158-to-pounders. Guy Salerno preferred. Jack's last start was against Enzo Fiermonte in Madison Square Garden, New York.

The dates of the A. M. A. senior amateur championship tournament at the Keystone A. C. have been changed to March 26 and April 1-2.

Tiger West and Guy Salerno have been matched to box the winner at the Motor Temple, Wednesday night of next week. Moe Butch and Jackie Wilson furnish the main event there tomorrow night. Lee Sala boxes Carl Montefano, Wedge Ketchel meets Lloyd Clements and Bobby Rowe battles Sammy Asto in the preliminaries.

Ralph Lenny boxes Murray Fikins and Archie Bell meets Johnny Penn in 10-round preliminaries to the Billy Petrolle-Ruffino Pattalino 15-rounder in New York's Madison Square Garden, Friday night. Sammy Offerman and Young Flippo are paired for eight rounds.

Benny Ross, who meets Frankie Beninati, at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, boxes Wesley Ramey in St. Louis tomorrow night. Ramey, by the way, also is matched with Ray Miller at Detroit, March 18.

HERMAN-OTT DEAL IN AIR

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 8.—Manager Max Carey, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is willing to trade his only unruly pupil, Babe Herman, who has been playing hookey from the spring training school, for Mel Ott, New York Giant outfielder. Carey is so keen on Ott he is willing to swap Herman for Ott even up.

The whole Brooklyn board of directors, with the exception of Steve McKeever, is here, and they are adamant in their stand on a $11,000 salary for Herman. They have assured Carey they will back any deal he makes, and if he wants to trade Herman for Ott he will have their o. k.

Canonsburg Loses In Washington Play

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 8.—Canonsburg, defending champion in Class 1, was defeated by Burgettstown here last night in the Washington County basketball tourney. McDonald, Claysville, Cecil and East Pike Run survived second-round Class 2 competition.

STOCKS LIFTED NEAR YEAR'S HIGHEST

Strength in Petroleum Group Spreads to Rest Of List; Many Up 1 to 2

NEW YORK, March 8. — (AP.)—Oils provided the fuel for a fresh advance in the stock market today.

The list was sluggish, with a firm undertone, during the earlier hours, but increasing strength in the petroleum group finally spread throughout much of the list and trading quickened after midday. Advances of 1 to 2 points or more were numerous carrying the general level up once more to around the year's best.

Such issues as Standards of New Jersey and California, Texas Corporation, Tidewater-Associated and General Asphalt rose a point or more, while several of the lower priced oils moved up fractionally. Chemicals and tobaccos were also firm with American Tobacco "B," Liggett and Myers "B," Columbia Carbon, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Allied Chemical showing gains of around 2 points. American Telephone gained as much. Miscellaneous issues up a point or more included United States Steel, American Can, National Biscuit, New York Central and Southern Pacific. Exceptional gains appeared in Chrysler and Ford International Silver and Auburn up about 3 to 4.

The gains in the oils and tobaccos were in further response to the billion dollar tax bill as presented in Congress, which omits specific additional levies on gasoline and tobacco. On the whole, financial quarters expressed satisfaction with the tax measure. While threats of higher taxes have in the past been bearish influences in Wall street, several leading bankers now express the view that one of the most bullish things that can happen would be a balancing of governmental revenues and expenditures through higher non-discriminatory taxes, and governmental economies.

Business — Pittsburgh Coal Keeps In Good Condition Regardless of Loss

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

PITTSBURGH COAL Company remains in a good financial position in spite of the fact operations have been at a loss in each year since 1924 with the single exception of 1929 when net profit was shown.

During this period the company has had intermittent troubles with its labor, has been generally unsuccessful in its attempts to secure more satisfactory freight rates to Lake Erie ports and in the past two years has been suffering from poor business conditions in common with other industries.

After drastic efforts to cut costs by modernizing its operations, building coal cleaning plants and abandoning high cost properties the company finally was able to get its head above water in 1929 when net profit after interest, depreciation and depletion but before federal taxes amounted to $15,592. It was generally believed at that time that the organization had turned the corner but the declining industrial activity and the consequent weakness in coal prices since then have made it impossible for the company to show the benefits of improved operating methods and lower costs.

Loss for 1931 Double That of Previous Year

THE ANNUAL REPORT for 1931 showed a loss of $2,300,418 after all charges. This was more than double the loss of $1,078,698 reported for 1930.

There is one interesting factor to take into consideration in reviewing the earnings of recent years. The amount charged off for depreciation has increased substantially in each year since 1928. The deduction for this reserve was $1,611,233 in 1928, $2,076,624 in 1929, $2,529,824 in 1930 and $2,492,043 in 1931. It will be noted that the deduction for depreciation last year was more than double this charge in 1928.

This may be attributable to the fact that rapidly changing mining methods and the need for frequent modernization have convinced officials that these reserves should be increased. At any rate it shows that conservative accounting practices are being followed and that there has been no window dressing in recent years to make the reports look better.

Reserves Exceed Net Losses in Recent Years

DEPLETION RESERVES naturally fluctuate with the tonnage of coal mined each year. Provision for this amounted to $1,165,841 in 1931 when 10,931,636 tons were mined as compared with $1,471,960 in 1930 when 13,208,659 tons were mined.

Combined depreciation and depletion reserves have exceeded the net losses in each year since the company has been having difficulties. Last year these combined charges amounted to $3,801,784 against a net loss of $2,300,418.

As a result of this situation, working capital has not been reduced by operations even though income accounts have ended in minus quantities. The only factors reducing working capital have been expenditures for improvements, payments to meet sinking fund requirements and similar charges.

Working capital at the close of 1931 was $15,278,547 against $17,244,743 at the beginning of the year. The principal factors in the reduction were payments to sinking funds of $1,212,015, plant improvements costing $929,081 and purchases of stock to be sold to employes at cost in the future.

Current assets stood at $18,691,116 against current liabilities of $3,412,569. Cash amounted to $2,607,776. Marketable securities costing $3,699,257 had a market value of $2,953,301.

Funded debt at the close of the year amounted to $26,157,500. Considerable investment interest is retained by the debenture 6s, due in 1949, in spite of the unfavorable results of the company. The issue, amounting to $18,473,000 constitutes the principal portion of the funded debt. It is protected by a sinking fund of $1,100,000 annually whether any coal is mined or not. The issue originally amounted to $25,000,000 and was offered in Febraury, 1929. Since that time $6,527,000 of bonds have been retired.

Physician Is Summoned by Dancing Teacher When Lily Lou Faints

CHAPTER XXIX

A short man and a tall man were standing in the room where she lay. Lily Lou saw them, silhouetted against the window. They seemed to be talking. The short man jerked a thumb in her direction. She caught the word "she"—

Because her eyelids were so heavy, she closed her eyes again. It was easier to think with her eyes shut.

They were talking about her, she was sure of that. She lay quite still, trying not to be frightened. Everything was all right. Something had happened, that was all. She'd remember in a moment.

She must have fainted . . . silly to faint. The Lansings never fainted . . . and oh, dear, how miserable it made you feel.

She knew where she was now. Dwight Gwin's studio, full of Italian antiques, red velvet and tarnished gilt, and a built-in fountain in the middle of the floor. She'd peeked in lots of times when the door was open.

ANGRY AT HERSELF

She closed her eyes hastily. They had discovered she was conscious, and she didn't want to talk—not yet—not just yet—

A firm, cool hand closed over her wrist. It was no use pretending, they knew she was awake. She opened her eyes and smiled apologetically. "I'm awfully sorry," she said. "I'm afraid I fainted. It was nice of Mr—Mr.—"

She knew Dwight Gwin's name as well as her own, but she just couldn't think of it. The tears of weakness filled her eyes. "The light is so bright," she mumbled, trying to turn her head away from them.

"You're all right," Gwin said soothingly. "You didn't even fall. I caught you. Just a little dizziness."

She tried to answer and choked. What a fuss she had made. Stopped the dancing class, and Gwin's coaching . . . "Pull yourself together," she told herself angrily. "Stop sniffling!" But when she struggled to a sitting position the short man pushed her back on the pillows. "Take it easy for another half hour," he advised, crisply. "Then you may go home. But keep away from that fire escape. There would have been a nasty accident if Mr. Gwin had not been there to catch you. A woman in your condition can't take chances like that."

LILY LOU ALARMED

A woman in your condition . . . The short man had said that to her . . . a woman in your. . .

She sat bolt upright. He said . . . but he couldn't mean . . . Dear God, he couldn't mean . . . No, no, he couldn't . . .

"Thanks very much, doctor." It was Gwin's voice. He was escorting the short man to the door.

Doctor. Then Gwin had called a doctor. And he—he thought—

She got to her feet, a little dizzy, but icily calm. She must get out of this man's studio. Whatever had happened to her, or was going to happen to her, she'd have to face it. Keep up appearances. Plan. Do something. But get out of here first, get away—

"Oh, but please! Dr. Poole said you were to rest!"

Gwin's distress only heightened her desire to get away. He knew too . . . he heard what the doctor said, and he thought . . . What DID he think? She saw pity in his eyes, and she couldn't bear it.

"I'm quite all right," she heard herself saying coldly. "Please don't bother any more. I'm so sorry to have made trouble."

She knew that she was being stiff and ungrateful, after he had saved her from falling, and called a doctor . . .

"And will you tell me how much the doctor's fee will be? I'd like to pay it."

"Please, Miss—Miss Lansing—"

INSISTS ON PAYING

When he stumbled over her name she wished the floor would open and swallow her up. Wished he'd let her fall off the fire escape. And to conceal her suffering she held her head still higher, and her voice was hard and brittle as glass:

"But I must pay the bill. I can't let you pay anything for me!"

A dark flush dyed Gwin's thin face. "I suppose it will be $3. But I wish you'd let me. I just called him because I was worried, you were so long coming to. I thought"

"I'll bring it to you in the morning. Will that be all right?"

"Thank you, Mr. Gwin. Good-bye."

She sailed to the door. Sailed, a little less bravely, down the hall to Wanda Pillsbury's studio. It was empty. The children had gone. So had Wanda.

Lily Lou looked at her watch. It was only 4 o'clock. Wanda must have dismissed the class for lack of music.

Resentment flared in her troubled heart. Wanda could have used the phonograph. It wouldn't have hurt her, for once.

She stood looking around, rather blankly. There would be no more classes today. She might as well go. Carefully she reddened her lips and powdered her nose. Carefully she adjusted her ruffled hair. You've got to look as though nothing had happened, no matter what . . . what happens to you . . .

Mrs. Manchester and Maxine were having tea and cigarets in the long, book-lined room that it pleased Mrs. Manchester to call "the studio."

BECOMES WORRIED

They greeted her enthusiastically.

"Well! How did you escape so early! Come taste the new kind of sandwiches Sadie made, and we're having tea with jam—Russian style! It's a party!"

"Yes, sit down, Lily Lou, and tell us all about your day. I've been working fiendishly on the sponsors for my Sunshine Day Nursery. As I told Maxine—"

Lily Lou took the tea they offered her. She listened to their talk. She made appropriate answers. She even told them about Wanda Pillsbury's row with the janitor's wife, and they laughed, and encouraged her. She sat there, laughing and talking, as long as they did. It was only when Maxine announced her intention of running downstairs to see about getting her best suit pressed, and Mrs. Manchester went into the kitchen to consult with Sadie, that she went to her room.

She was going to have a baby.

She, Lily Lou Lansing, who had a mother who played the organ in church, and a father who was always talking about taking a shot at somebody, only of course he wouldn't . . . he wouldn't . . .

Came to New York to sing in opera . . . going to have a baby instead . . . That's what the doctor said. He might be wrong. Nobody could be sure at first. Didn't Bess say that at first. Didn't Bess say that, lots of times? That was why she hadn't been too afraid. . . . Couldn't be sure. . . . It couldn't be that now . . . when she wasn't even married any more . . . when she'd left Ken, and was going to work and sing, and be a success. . . . It couldn't be . . . It was too late for her to have to think about things like that. It wasn't fair . . .

THINKS OF KEN

She slipped to her knees beside the bed. Almighty and most merciful Father . . . But you can't pray not to have a baby! You can't do that. You've got to face it, whatever comes . . . face it . . . write Ken . . . got to write to Ken . . . Dear Ken. I had to write to you now, at this time, but I think you ought to know . . .

The letter that she was composing in her mind came to an end. A sob tore itself out of her throat. She couldn't write Ken. Ken was engaged to be married. To Peggy Sage. He'd take the letter to Peggy. Tell her how he couldn't marry her, because he'd have to do the decent thing and come back and marry Lily Lou Lansing, because she was going to have a baby . . .

She put her hands over her eyes to shut out the horrid sight. The sight of Peggy's piquant face . . . her fluff of gilt hair, her beady eyes . . . Peggy being sorry . . . Peggy giving up Ken, and sympathizing with him because he had to go back to Lily Lou.

She knelt perfectly still, trying to think. Trying to think of some way out. Of something to do.

The watch on her wrist ticked on and on. It sounded like the beating of a heart. Her own heart was broken, but it kept on beating. Her life with Ken was broken, but Ken's baby . . .

ALL IN A DAY — By MARK HELLINGER

IT WAS 6 o'clock in the morning when I walked into my room in the hotel. And I'm here to tell you, kids, that I was a mighty tired individual. Ever since Mr. Ziegfeld reached the strange conclusion some six months ago that I should again do some work for him, I've been cutting down on my sleep and adding to my labors.

The other night, then, I had just about reached the end of the road. As I left Mr. Ziegfeld's room after discussing the final details for some four hours, I was absolutely groggy.

You've had that feeling of absolute exhaustion, haven't you? I guess we all go through it at one time or another. The only thought that kept me moving was the realization that everything was almost completed and that I could now sleep at least six hours without interruption.

Six hours of peaceful slumber, paradise, no less. I think that if some one had come along right then and offered me $50,000 in exchange for that sleep I would have turned the offer down. Mind you, I only say I think I would.

At last I reached my room and switched on the lights. There was the bed, the covers neatly turned back and no more than 50 pillows. two pairs of trousers and an overcoat on top of it. I brushed the entire mess to the floor and yanked at my tie. Oh, boy, how good that bed looked! At last I was ready. I walked to the phone and talked to the operator. In this particular hotel the phones are all away from the beds. I imagine it's just a little trick the builders employed so that people would never forget the hotel, no matter where they traveled. Especially when the phone rang early on a very cold morning. However—

"Listen, honey," I told the operator, "I want you to do me a very big favor. Will you?"

"Certainly, Mr. Hellinger," she replied. "What is it?"

I swayed slightly. I was more tired, if possible.

"It's simply this," I muttered. "This is a swell hotel and I enjoy being here. But sometimes—when I leave a call not to be disturbed until a certain hour—you girls forget my instructions. I know it's a very large place and I can't blame you for making mistakes occasionally. But tonight—or rather this morning—this means a lot to me.

"I don't want to be disturbed until noon tomorrow. Is that clear?"

She said it was very clear. But I wanted to make it positive.

"You see, girlie," I said, "I'm just about the tiredest guy in all the world at this very moment. I finally have a chance to snatch six hours of sleep and I've got to do it.

"Don't think I'm making any speeches. I'm simply saying that this means a lot to me. I don't care who calls me, I don't want to be disturbed until 12 o'clock tomorrow. Will you do that for me?"

The operator was most agreeable and sympathetic.

"Positively, Mr. Hellinger," she asserted. "You don't have to worry at all. I'll leave a note for the chief operator and I promise you that you'll have no calls."

"Thank you," I murmured.

"That's all right," she returned. "Good night."

Exactly one second later I was in bed. I pulled the covers around me and closed my eyes. I haven't smiled in a long time, but I guarantee that I was smiling then. Sleep—at last.

Thoughts kept racing through my brain, as it is sometimes called. Thoughts of this. Thoughts of that. Thoughts of the show. Thoughts of the column. Thoughts of a lot of things.

Gradually the thoughts stopped racing. Soon they were jogging along. Then they slowed to a walk. They faded into the distance. Everything was so peaceful. I was asleep. And how I was sleeping!

I should say it was about 30 minutes later that my phone rang. At first I thought I was dreaming. But that bell kept plugging away insistently. I'll swear it rang two minutes before I realized that I had to get up again. And by the time I stepped from my bed and reached the receiver I was completely daffy.

After the definite instructions I had left, this was what happened. I was shaking with anger when I suddenly realized that perhaps it was an emergency call. Something terrible must have taken place. After all it could have been one of any number of things. I snapped the receiver from the hook.

"Hello," I cried nervously. "What is it?"

"I just wanted to make sure of something, Mr. Hellinger," she said. "Did you say 10 o'clock or 12 o'clock?" . . .

"DEAR MARK:" writes a gentleman who signs himself 'A Journalism Student'! "As an appreciation of delicious irony, you might go for this little piece. If not, there's no harm done.

"About 10 years ago, in this fair city of ours, there lived a very successful attorney. He specialized in will cases and came to be recognized as an authority on the subject. Accordingly, by the simple process of handling wills for many of the moneyed residents of New York, he amassed quite a fortune before he passed on to a land where wills are not of much value.

"At some time during his very successful career he drew up a will for himself. Having no children, he left everything to his wife. There was, however, a provision. Or, rather, an additional clause. He stated that, when she died, the entire fortune should be given to the law college at which he had once been a student. Simple, wasn't it?

"Well, evidently it wasn't. The will he wrote consisted of 16 typewritten pages, constructed and phrased so exactly that there could be no loopholes in it. But when he died, the legal terminology was so involved that the Supreme Court was finally invited into the matter. When the decision was handed down, the money went to the law school. And the wife was left very little . . .

"Just about the same time, Capt. Gray, an Army balloonist, tried for the world's altitude record in Chicago. Before he went up, some one asked him if he had made his will. The captain laughed.

"'No,' he returned. 'I don't know anything about wills.'

"The some one to whom he was talking insisted that he should really have one. Gray grinned again.

"'Okay with me,' he chirped. 'I'll have one.'

"He pulled an old envelope from his own pocket and wrote: 'Everything I own, I leave to my wife, Mildred Gray.' Two newspapermen witnessed the signature, and Capt. Gray climbed into his balloon.

"A few hours later, Gray was dead. There was no question about the validity of the will. His wife received every penny.

"Is that ironical, Mark—or am I crazy? The will authority wrote one so involved that the Supreme Court misinterpreted it—while the army captain, who didn't know a law court from a glazed one, wrote one so simple that there cou'd be no mistake. Strange, isn't it?" . . .

Junior Komic Club -:- SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS

The Saturday meetings of the Junior Komic Club, held at the 17 Warner theaters contained plenty of thrills and surprises for all the members. These meetings, held every Saturday starting as early as 11 o'clock at some chapters, are conducted by a Grand Jester and a board of governors consisting of six of the children.

Manager Frank E. Roberts, of the Enright Chapter, announced to the members that next Saturday at the Enright he will start a dancing school for all members of the Enright Chapter of the Junior Komic Club. This announcement was received with shouts of joy and glee, the members remembering the dancing school that Mr. Roberts had sponsored some time ago.

The members of all the chapters are enthusiastic about the contest for coloring the Popeye comic picture that appeared in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

There is one sweater for each chapter—the boy or girl sending in the best piece of color work will be the proud winner. The sweaters are "pippins" and will come in mighty handy if this weather continues. Be sure to have your Popeye picture in the mails before midnight tomorrow night addressed to the Junior Komic Club, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Here are a few of the members who attended the meeting at the Harris (Downtown) Chapter Saturday, and their membership numbers:

If you are not a member of the Junior Komic Club, send your name and address to the Secretary, Junior Komic Club, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Manager C. C. Montague, of the New Carnegie Theater Chapter, reports Saturday was the largest and most enthusiastic meeting he has had. Carnegie has evidently gone strong for the Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club.

Those Who Can Must Aid

The Unemployed Should Be Helped, of Course, but Not Through a Higher Tax on Small Homes.

The more the proposal to aid the unemployed through a new city bond issue is examined the more objectionable it appears.

It is estimated that tax collections this year will amount to only about 75 per cent. If 25 per cent are delinquent this year, it is plain that under the higher tax rate necessitated by the bond issue delinquencies will be greater. The law of diminishing returns argues against raising the rate.

Reflecting the misgivings of the public in regard to the proposal, the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board has asked for a hearing.

There is a widespread feeling that relief should be provided in some other way than through a real estate tax which would make it harder for small property owners to hold on to their homes.

The Allied Boards of Trade did a significant thing yesterday in inviting Senator David A. Reed to attend a public meeting in Pittsburgh and explain why he voted against the La Follette-Costigan bill.

The most satisfactory way of meeting the unemployment relief problem would be through action by Congress or the State Legislature.

Failing that, another and more vigorous effort should be made to persuade the well to do to come to the rescue through voluntary contributions under the Harris plan.

Thank You, Mr. Negley!

The Butler County District Attorney Has Shown Commendable Zeal in the Kline Case.

District Attorney Edgar H. Negley, of Butler County, could hardly have been blamed much if he had shown no particular zeal to wash Allegheny County's soiled linen.

After all, even though the venue has been changed to Butler, the prosecution of Mayor Charles H. Kline and Bertram L. Succop, former Director of Supplies, on the charge of misconduct in office, is the job of District Attorney Andrew T. Park; and Negley might have been expected to leave everything in Park's hands, rendering only perfunctory co-operation himself.

Instead he has thrown himself into the case with as much earnestness as could have been demanded of him if it were a Butler County case. Thanks to his diligence and alertness there is to be a showdown on the jury-tampering charge.

Has the Senate Abandoned Jobless to Their Fate?

By a vote of 11 to 9, the Committee on Foreign Relations has rejected a proposal to postpone at least until April 15 the Senate's debate upon the League Court protocol.

This means that the valuable time which the Senate should be spending upon legislation so urgently needed to speed the return of prosperity here at home is to be recklessly squandered upon discussion of a scheme to plunge the United States into the maelstrom of foreign politics and into every foreign quarrel that threatens another war.

This means that the Senate is going to turn a deaf ear to the desperate plight of 7,000,000 Americans who are able and willing to work but unable to find work.

This means that the Senate is going to shirk the paramount duty of the new Congress, instead of setting an example to the House of Representatives by attending to American business and repudiating the example of the White House which neglects America's business to meddle in foreign politics.

From the White House has come this latest drive to drag the United States into the League of Nations through the trap-door of the League Court.

From the White House has come nothing but opposition to the prosperity loan long advocated by the Hearst newspapers—the only feasible proposal now before Congress to give employment on needed public works to the millions of Americans now hunting for jobs.

Senator Capper, of Kansas, declared last summer that he favored some such practical emergency measure to reduce unemployment.

If Senator Capper is still in favor of such a remedy, why did he vote to squander the Senate's time in debating the League Court protocol?

Are there no unemployed in the State of Kansas who are appealing to their senior Senator for aid?

Senator Wagner, of New York, has long advocated emergency legislation to provide work for the unemployed.

If Senator Wagner still believes this to be the paramount duty of the present Congress, why did he vote the other day to fritter away the Senate's time in discussion of a scheme to tie this country up to the League of Nations through the League Court?

Does the distinguished Senator from New York believe that American membership in the League Court will provide work for the hundreds of thousands of his own constituents who are urgently in need of work?

What in the world are the progressive Democrats and independent Republicans of the Senate thinking about when they thus so supinely surrender to the dictatorship of the White House and turn a deaf ear to the pleas of 7,000,000 Americans able and willing to work, longing for the opportunity to work, urgently needing work, and unable to find work?

The Jumping Off Place -:- By Nelson Harding

To those whose way has always been
To pussyfoot along the fence,
With balance quite remarkable,
The situation now is tense.

The jumping off place is hard by,
And there are but two ways to jump—
Which one, the wet side or the dry?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 8.—The speakeasy invasion into profits of respectable restaurants and hotel dining rooms has aroused proprietors thereof to demand the law defying vintners be curbed. Or else. That is to say many who have been observing decorum will sell liquor.

Only two hotels made a fair profit during the past year. Economic eclipse, of course, contributed to such deficit, but it is declared many hotels and restaurants might have weathered the storm had the many-splendored speakies not drawn so much patronage.

The speaks not only served best food at cheap prices, but served it with more of the flub-dubbery called class. Furthermore they have two orchestras and strolling musicians as a general thing. The carting away of equipment has slowed up some of the places, but not enough to aid respectables.

Outlaw salons attract the efficient waiters, captains and often headwaiters because of larger tips. Meals for $2 could not be served profitably at $5 where the law is obeyed. In one such place, a recent Saturday night—the best night of the week—there were but seven diners.

One of the speakies features Brillat Savarin's conception of the perfect luncheon—a consomme, a slice of Turbot au Gratan, bread sliced thin and a glass of sherry. Priced at $1, there is no profit, but it makes the place talked about and brings many dinner customers.

* * *

I idled a half-hour in an institut de beaute this afternoon while my wife had a shampoo. There is a multiple-mirrored splendor about such salons that almost touches off giddiness. Gorgeous creatures emerge marceled, manicured, massaged and aflame with a cosmetic glow. There is incessant chirp of the aviary amid a luminous background of lights and perfumes. A de luxe barber shop seems third rate in comparison. Almost slumming.

A spy, who claims he sat behind Babe Ruth at vaudeville's Valhalla—The Palace—reports the Yank ace doubled with laughter when a crossfire patter team pulled this: "What has 18 legs and catches flies?" Answer: "A baseball nine."

Branching from Chatham Square where the Bowery ends in a shoddy tumult, are muffled streets, relieved here and there by woebegone squares, where people of respectability but small incomes struggle to carry on. Even houses have forlorn facades, often pockmarked by the eternally sad twilight of the overhead "L". Windows in seedy cafes display dishes garnished with wilted parsley and bills of fares in purple ink. About the people is an apologetic strain—low-pitched voices and a melting into shadows, appealing humility and decency. They need charity more than most folk, but they will not accept it.

* * *

At breakfast, a gentleman I esteem related a story he had told to but one other. It recounted his struggle to lift himself out of an environment near Chatham Square. He made the grade. Yet he sighed: "I scarcely believe it worth the struggle. I merely passed out of the lives of the most wholesome and kindly people I ever knew."

After depositing a coin in a Twenty-third street drugstore phone booth, I suddenly remembered that in this neighborhood the gangster, Vincent Coll, similarly engaged, was mowed down by a machine gun. I not only forgot the number, but exited through a rear door in a sidewise flutter. A backfire from an auto and the sidewalk would have bedded the wanniest swooner of the older Grand Central set.

This column is dabbed with gloom, nor are such megrims lightened by a telegram from Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein, that she has opened a Broadway night club. A hapless fate for the widow of one giving the world so much joy!

I used to follow The Great Oscar across Forty-second street in the pop-eyed manner of a boy trailing a ring champion. His conical silk hat and beard were equally bright with legend. And a super thrill of those days was, when interviewing him in his cubby hole office, he rolled for me a gift cigar. I still have it.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Often . . . often . . . I hate myself.

I sit back and look at myself. I look at myself as at a stranger, surveying with sick eyes and heart; this creature which is masquerading in my body.

I listen to the silly things that other Self says. I hear its cheap, boasting . . . its shallow, insincere chattering . . . its malicious insinuations . . . its downright lies.

I see the hateful things that other Self does. I see its heartlessness, its greedy grab at power, its unfairness. I see how lazy it really is in spite of its great boast about Doing Things. I see how mean it is, in spite of its talk of Brotherly Love.

I feel, with loathing and shame, the hidden truth about the other Self. I know the cowardly, cruel desires that hide in its heart. I know how stupid it really is. What a cheat and a faker!

It may fool others, but it cannot fool me—that other Self. For I and that other Self are one—horribly one. And never can I be free from it.

And so, no matter how gay I may appear outwardly, there is always within me, this dark knowledge of myself . . . this hate of myself.

And this hate is so real that I know dreadful hours when I am alone. Lonely, bewildered hours. Hours when I wish the struggle were over—

Then I think of that proud, passionate, wilful man who once lived so brutally and yet became a great saint. But even when he had become Saint Paul, there still was a darkness in him, as there is in all of us. And sometimes he put aside his solemn preacher's style and cried out—just as you or I would cry out—

"I KNOW THAT IN ME . . . DWELLETH AN EVIL THING—

"FOR THE GOOD THAT I WOULD, I DO NOT; BUT THE EVIL THAT I WOULD NOT, THAT I DO.

"O WRETCHED MAN THAT I AM, WHO SHALL DELIVER ME FROM THE BODY OF THIS DEATH?"

Sitting alone with my hateful self, I remember that old man's words. I make his words my own. Across the long, long years I see the pain and shame of his eyes mirrored in mine.

Why were we made as we were made—Saul of Tarsus, Elsie Robinson . . . you and you and you? Why were we made with this dark thing in us—and beside it, such a shining vision of the thing we'd like to be?

And, through my tears I see the things I'd like to be. The tender, honest, gallant, generous woman that I'm—NOT!

How wonderful to be like that! To go through life, clean and kind—freed from "the body of this death."

And suddenly it comes to me that there is a miracle in this.

FOR, THOUGH I AM NOT WHAT I WOULD LIKE TO BE, IS IT NOT WONDERFUL THAT I WOULD LIKE TO BE LIKE THAT?

From where did such a lovely vision come? How could it have arisen in my stupid brain, my narrow heart?

Yet there it is!

And since it is there, have I not a right to hope?

IF I CANNOT BELIEVE IN THE THING WHICH I AM, CAN I NOT BELIEVE IN THE THING I WOULD LIKE TO BE?

League's Real Test Proves Its Futility

(Copyright, 1932, the Curtis Publishing Company.)

(Reprinted by permission of the editor from an editorial entitled "A Plague O' Both Your Houses," from the Saturday Evening Post of March 5.)

EVEN the most loyal backers of the League of Nations must concede that if Japan has not killed it, she has weakened it so severely in the estimation of the world that its ultimate recovery is doubtful. And she has probably succeeded in turning the attention of the nations from collective disarmament to competitive armament.

Beginning with September, the League made frantic gestures of disapproval of Japan's course in Manchuria and Shanghai; at times even going so far as to slap Japan on the wrist.

She answered with soldiers and shells. As this is written, the other powers are trying to hold her in check; but if she is temporarily checked, it will be because she fears the threat of united force applied by the great powers, and probably not because of anything the League has said.

SHE will simply consolidate as much of her gains as she can and wait another opportunity, when she feels stronger and the world weaker. For her objectives are not of the moment. They have been carefully planned in advance.

The domination of the Far East and of its trade is the motive quite apparent under the thin silk of her honorable protestations.

Leagues and pacts may temporarily slow her down, but they will not finally stop a warlike people, armed to the teeth, and on the march.

There must be something more effective than "don't" and "you mustn't" to meet ruthless force. Consequently, much as we may deplore it, the nations will probably leave the disarmament conference table to look to their armaments.

And should the conference fail, THE NATION WHOSE ARMAMENTS ON LAND, SEA AND IN THE AIR NEED THE MOST ATTENTION IS THE UNITED STATES.

JAPAN has given the yellow peril alarmists, the big-navy boosters, the munitions makers, and those who maintain that man is and always must be a fighting animal the chance of a century. We shall probably be flooded with propaganda both by them and by the pacifist and sentimentalist groups, just as we are beginning to be flooded with pro-Japanese and pro-Chinese propaganda.

Great caution is needed in appraising the news from either country. Sane men will keep a pro-American attitude and decide, on the merits of events, what the present and future safety of this country really requires.

Beneath a veneer of civilization, Japan is essentially a feudal, militaristic nation. She has given lip service to the League, but force is the god in her temples.

IF there ever was a time when the League should function fully, it is in this zero hour of the world, when we still remember the horrors of the last war and are half bankrupt from its effects. It seems incredible that we should step back into 1914; that we should permit another catastrophe, based on the same old reasons, to engulf us.

Perhaps the world will pause on the edge of this abyss and turn back. Perhaps a plan, based on a real treaty of peace to take the place of the Versailles Treaty, will grow out of it—something that will automatically incline a belligerent power to be good.

For the present we can only say of both Japan and China: "A plague o' both your houses."

"WHO AM I?"

By Winifred Black

A man of 30 or so walked into a police station in a western city the other day and asked the police to help him find out who he was.

The man said that he had come to himself walking along a steamship dock, and he seemed to remember some sort of a voyage. Dim, in the background of his mind, there were recollections of wild winds and high seas, and the rocking and pitching of a storm-tossed ship.

He had no letters or cards of any kind in his pockets, and he could not remember his name or tell where he came from.

"Who am I?" asked the man. "That's what I want to know. Where is my home? What is my family? Am I married, or am I a bachelor?

Poor fellow! He is puzzled, worried and more than a little confused and frightened. Can you blame him?

And yet, in a deep sense, he is no more confused than you or I. You know your name, doubtless; and I know exactly where I live, and can give you the names and addresses of a score of friends. But, after all, who am I, really?

Who are you? Where did you get your temper, and your common sense, and your love of music? Who taught you how to melt a cold heart with a smile? From what ancestors did you get the trick of turning bad luck into good?

Your father was a plain man, of good common sense and a kind of fine loyalty to his own ideals and his own class. His brother ran away to sea when he was 17, and came home when he was nearly 40, tanned with the winds of all around the world and burned with the sun of half a dozen deserts.

It was easy for him to make money. He had a sort of gift of wheedling fortune. But when he had it, how long could he keep it? Not a month. Not a week.

Ah ha! You are your father's son, by a good and virtuous mother. How did you come to inherit your Uncle Robert's smile, and the roll in his gait, and the sparkle and flash of those blue eyes of his?

Where did he get these things, in his time? I ask you.

And how about your Aunt Jessica—she that was the belle of Washington, in her day, and turning her back on it all and going into a convent at 24?

Who was she, anyhow, and how did she get into your family at all?

Who are you?

Who am I—really?
